DOOMS CITY'S HOPE FOR U. S. AIRPORT FUND

State Bureau Says Only One Project, at Cincinnati, To Be Constructed.

OTHER CITIES HIT, TOO

Government Plans Route 42 Improvements in County as Defense Measure.

Mansfield's hopes along with those of nearly 100 other Ohio cities for early improvement of airport facilities at government expense were crushed today by the state bureau of aeronautics.

One slim hope that the projected improvements in Mansfield, calling for the expenditure of $186,000 for paved runways and night lighting, might be made was seen in a statement made by a bureau spokesman.

He was quoted by the Associated Press as saying that only one major project—a new $1,100,000 field at Cincinnati—appeared certain of inclusion under an $80,000,000 appropriation measure now before congress, although minor improvements might be made to a number of other ports.

Meanwhile, however, it was disclosed in Washington that plans were being prepared for improving hundreds of miles of highways in Ohio as a step toward making the nation invulnerable to invasion.

Included in the program for improving the key roads is the designated military route, U. S. 42, from Delaware through Mansfield, northeast to Cleveland.

Associated Press dispatches from Washington said military and civil officials withheld details, but that it was learned reliably that the plan called for improvement of existing key roads and the strengthening or replacement of scores of bridges in the state.

Some work, the dispatches said, including new roads to military and population centers in the state, would be done by the WPA.

Yep! Legion Will Stage Halloween Celebration Here

They're gonna do it again—bigger and better than ever before. McVey Post, American Legion, announced today Mansfield will have its annual and traditional Halloween celebration and for the second year the Legion will sponsor it.

Walter L. Beckley was named general chairman today and will appoint his committee within the next few days.

The Legion took over the Halloween celebration last year, carrying on a tradition which had been started years ago by the late Fred Hunt as a means of keeping boys in the down town district and keeping them out of mischief on the night when ghosts and goblins walk.

Beckley said today that he planned to make the celebration the "biggest the town has ever had." Substantial cash prizes will be offered for the best float, for the best musical unit and there will be cash prizes for various classifications of costumes.

DEMS TO RALLY

Sen. Lucas Named Speaker for Columbus Meeting.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—U. S. Senator Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) will be the principal speaker at a statewide Democratic rally in Columbus on Oct. 14, J. Freer Bittinger, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee announced today.

RULES OF FAG COST

TOLEDO—(AP)—The Lane Drug company must charge a minimum retail price of 16 cents a pack for standard brand cigarets, Common Pleas Judge John M. McCabe ruled yesterday in granting an injunction sought by Leo Rayess on behalf of local vendors who had contracted not to sell for less than that price.

Leaders Aver Willkie Rally Cinches Ohio

Bender Describes It As Cleveland's Greatest Political Meeting.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—As the Wendell Willkie band wagon steamed out of Ohio today, the state's Republican leaders who received a share of the presidential candidate's spotlight acclaimed the tour as clinching election success.

Rep. George H. Bender, chairman of the rally here, termed it "the greatest political rally ever held in Cleveland" and said "there is no doubt about it whatever; Cleveland is going for Willkie."

Gov. John W. Bricker asserted "Ohio is going Republican straight down the line."

Both spoke from the public auditorium platform preceding Willkie last night as did Mayor Harold H. Burton, candidate for senator, and David S. Ingalls, national committeeman and head of the Willkie campaign in Ohio.

Bender announced to the exuberant crowd that in the audience were former Gov. George White, former national Democratic chairman who has declared himself for Willkie, and Mrs. Newton D. Baker, widow of the Democratic secretary of war.

Police Chief George J. Matowitz estimated at least 200,000 persons gathered along the short parade route in downtown Cleveland. In an elaborately flag-bedecked open automobile Willkie stood beaming and waving.

His diminutive wife in silver fox jacket captured feminine attention seated beneath his outstretched arms.

A shout came from an office building "Hooray for the CIO," and Willkie turned, grinned and waved.

The crowd at the speech-making was the equal of any the public auditorium has ever housed said John Wasie, its business manager. Some 15,000 persons overflowed the main auditorium, a couple of thousands jammed onto the huge stage and 3,200 were in

DRAFTS SPEECH

Roosevelt to Give Defense Talk at Dayton Oct. 12.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House announced today that President Roosevelt would deliver a national defense speech from a special train at Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 12.

Stephen T. Early, White House press secretary, said the president's Dayton address would be "non political" and would be carried free by three national radio networks. It will start at 9 p. m.

The address, Early said, will be a review—a "straight narrative story on the defense program of the United States."

Unlike presidential fireside chats, he continued, it will be addressed not only to the people of this country but to all the 21 American republics.

Willkie In Cleveland for Major Speech

CROSLEY FIELD, CINCINNATI—Jim Ripple's home run with Ival Goodman on base in the third inning gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4 to 2 lead over the Detroit Tigers in the early part of the second game of the world series today.

(By Associated Press)

CROSLEY FIELD, CINCINNATI—Schoolboy Rowe, the towering righthander who has been beaten only three times this year, faced Bucky Walters on the pitching hill today as the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds collided in the second game of the 1940 world series before a crowd of 30,000.

The weather was perfect, warmer and sunnier than yesterday when the Tigers took the opening tussle 7 to 2.

Rowe, who was one of the heroes of Detroit's last two American league pennant triumphs in 1934 and 1935, contributed 16 games to the Tigers' championship this year.

Walters, also a righthander, won 22 and lost 10 for the Reds during the regular season. His catcher today was the veteran Jimmy Wilson again and the rest of Cincinnati's lineup was the same as for the first game.

Kettering Foresees Life Made Easier by Science

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

A life made easier and better by science and scientific research and the discovery of "hundreds of things around us waiting to be found" was pictured to more than 400 business and professional men last night by Charles F. Kettering, famous research engineer, in a talk in the Westinghouse auditorium.

Head of the General Motors research department and one of the nation's foremost scientists, Kettering spoke at a meeting of the Mansfield section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Engineers and industrialists from Cleveland, Akron, Marion, and other nearby cities attended the meeting. Scores of Mansfield business and industrial leaders heard the talk as guests of the engineers.

"Don't let anyone tell you there are no more frontiers," Kettering advised. "There is a frontier every place we pick up something that we want to know something about.

"We don't know very much today about science and its possibilities. Look what industry has done in the past 10 years, and just think what can be done in the years to come."

The nation's economic woes and unemployment problems are largely the result of the lack of new projects to keep men busy and open new markets for the products

FOURTH CHILD

Mrs. Lindbergh Has Daughter Day Before Third Book.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Lindbergh gave birth yesterday to her fourth child—a 7½ pound daughter—a day before her third book was published.

Mother and daughter are reported doing well at Doctors hospital. Mrs. Lindbergh was visited yesterday afternoon by her aviator husband and later by her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow.

Colonel Lindbergh, in recent expressions, has urged that the United States avoid involvement in the European war. Mrs. Lindbergh's new book is entitled "The Wave of the Future," and in it she views the conflict as a struggle between the forces of the past and of the future, with Germany, Italy and Russia in the latter category.

"I cannot see this war. . ." she writes, "simply and purely as a struggle between the 'forces of good' and the 'forces of evil.'"

LINER SINKS

Rumored Nazi Raider Claims British Victim.

BUENOS AIRES—(INS)—It was rumored in Buenos Aires today—but there was no official confirmation—that a Nazi sea raider had sunk the Royal mail liner Highland Patriot off the Brazilian coast.

Although today's official communique from Berlin announced that a German submarine "sank the 14,172-ton armed British merchantman Highland Patriot," the British naval attache had no news of the sinking.

FRIENDS APPEAL FOR SURRENDER

Ask Fugitive Detroit Judge to Give Himself Up.

DETROIT — (AP) — While police intensified their search for Judge Robert E. Sage today in connection with the fatal shooting of a business partner and the wounding of two other men Tuesday night, friends made public appeals to him to surrender.

An open letter addressed "Dear Bob" apeared in a newspaper urging the fugitive jurist to "please do nothing desperate," and said "dozens" of Sage's friends were ready to aid him. It was signed by North J. Bourne, a broker.

Sage, 41, fled from his office where he served as judge of common pleas, after the shooting.

NAZI RAIDERS DROP BOMBS ON 20 DISTRICTS

Change in Defensive Tactics Credited With Protection of London Area.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Nazi bombers, operating as if on regular daily schedule, flew to the attack on Britain again today, causing destruction and casualties at scattered points.

In a Midlands town a single bomber showered high explosives and incendiaries. A factory and an elementary school were hit and it was feared one or two persons were killed.

One of the Nazi bombers fell a victim to British defenders at Hertingfordbury, near Hertford. When the plane came down two farm hands rushed out and made prisoners of four German airmen in it.

Nazi air invaders loosed bombs on 20 districts of London last night and early today, but the capital's central section had its fourth consecutive night of comparatively light raiding.

Anti-aircraft firing frequently was heavy in the city's outskirts as German warplanes returned for their 26th nightly assault.

The government said casualties throughout the country were few, and that there was no extensive damage.

British reporters continued to tell of the development of secret weapons for use against the raiders, and some sources credited a change in defensive tactics with the failure of the Germans to attack the central region in force.

FATHER DIES

Watches Son Pitch Victory For Detroit First.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Henry O. B. Newsom, 68, of Hartsville, S. C., father of Louis "Buck" Newsom, died in his hotel room today less than 12 hours after watching his son pitch the Detroit Tigers to their first world series victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Newsom said death was the result of a heart ailment from which his father had suffered for several months.

"It was only the second time he had seen me pitch," the son said, adding "I didn't think he'd make it from home."

Buck said that tentatively he planned to remain with the Detroit team for possible service during the series.

Newsom leaves two daughters and another son.

Laborites Get Important Jobs In New Set-Up

Former Prime Minister Expected to Give Up Leadership of Conservative Party; Expresses Confidence In Churchill Against 'Forces of Barbarism.'

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Ailing Neville Chamberlain, former prime minister under whom Britain entered the war against Germany, dropped out of the government today, and Prime Minister Churchill reshuffled his cabinet to give labor a more prominent role.

The man whose tightly-rolled umbrella came to symbolize his pre-war policy of appeasement toward totalitarian rulers, resigned both from his post as lord president of the council, which he had held since his cabinet fell last May after the ill-fated campaign against the Germans in Norway, and from the inner war cabinet.

Neville Chamberlain . . . resigns

He also is expected to give up his leadership of the Conservative party. It is understood a meeting will be called soon to choose a new leader, probably Churchill.

In quitting the political arena to return to private life, the 71-year-old Chamberlain expressed his "unshaken confidence" that under Churchill's leadership, Britain "with her allies and associates will succeed in overcoming the forces of barbarism which have reduced a great part of Europe to a condition little better than slavery."

In reply, Churchill expressed admiration for Chamberlain's aid and said, "You did all you could for victory."

Changes in Prime Minister Churchill's government, announced simultaneously, increased the size of the inner war cabinet from six to eight members, but observers who had predicted a sweeping realignment were surprised both by the limited scope of the alterations and the choice of the new appointees.

The most important changes included transfer of Laborite Herbert Morrison from the supply ministry to the combined job of secretary for the home department and minister of home security, and naming of Labor Minister Ernest Bevin and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood to the important inner cabinet.

Sir John Anderson, who was minister of home security, took Chamberlain's place in the war cabinet and as lord president of the council.

Prior to the announcement, political circles had expected that War Secretary Anthony Eden would be elevated to the post of foreign secretary, which he held before splitting with Chamberlain over appeasement in 1938, and also had forecast changes involving Minister of Information Alfred Duff Cooper and Minister of Air-

BOARD SPEEDS DRAFT PLANS

Election Officials Pick 2-Man Registration Teams to Serve In County Precincts.

With U. S. Army officials at Washington calling for the first contingent of draftees under the conscription act not later than Nov. 15, the Richland county election board today speeded plans for setting up the county registration machinery to go into action Oct. 16.

A. F. Porter, clerk of the election board, said two persons had been chosen in each of the county's 92 voting precincts to handle the registration of men between the ages of 21 and 35. He said the names would not be released until the apointees have been questioned about their availability on registration day.

The election board was awaiting final instructions from the secretary of state today before arranging for the opening of voting booths for registration on Oct. 16.

At Washington, army heads said in view of the troublesome conditions abroad they planned to start draftees to camps "early in November and not later than Nov. 15." It was expected previously

3 Former Public Officials Here Paroled From Pen

Three former public officials in Mansfield and Plymouth were free today after serving slightly more than a year and a half of one-to-10-year terms in the Ohio penitentiary for embezzling public funds in their departments.

Released from the penitentiary were Allen K. Ports, former Mansfield municipal clerk; A. F. Marvin, former clerk of the village of Plymouth, and Russell K. Erdenberger, former tax collector for the Mansfield Conservancy district.

The men had returned to their homes today. They entered the penitentiary March 13, 1939 and were paroled last spring for release now.

Pleading guilty to embezzlement indictments returned by the Richland county grand jury, the men were sentenced by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston. He told them when he imposed sentence on them that he would not stand in the way of their parole whenever they were eligible.

All three of the men held jobs in the penitentiary and officials at the institution said they were "model prisoners."

Mansfielders In Throng at Toledo Cathedral Dedication

By JANE WILLIAMS

Catholics from northwestern Ohio had returned to their homes today after witnessing two days of church pageantry in Toledo, such as this state has seldom, if ever seen. Yesterday marked the close of the two-day dedication ceremonials at the Queen of The Holy Rosary cathedral in Toledo, during which time it became the official church of the Toledo diocese, of which Mansfield is a part.

Yesterday's ceremonies and procession, which were specifically for the parishes of the diocese outside of Toledo, were distinguished by a flare of Old World pomp and brilliant pageantry such as Catholics in America seldom see.

In the procession were Msgr. R. C. Goebel of Mansfield, and three of his assistant priests. Fathers Flynn, Shenk and Dwyer. Msgr. Goebel was placed at the right of Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati, in the procession as it moved from the house of Msgr. Anthony Dean, head of the cathedral parish, on Parkwood avenue, to Islington and around to the main entrance of the cathedral on Collingwood.

Also in the procession were a number of the assistant priests who formerly served in the Mansfield parish, notably Rev. Robert O'Connor, now stationed in Toledo.

In the procession were several hundred clergy, bishops, archbishops and one cardinal. Forming a guard along three streets were Boy Scouts and several thousand Catholic school children, all wearing capes and caps in the papal colors of yellow and white. The monsignori, the bishops and the archbishops wore heavy silk gowns

MANSFIELD GIRL BRIDE OF INDIANA PASTOR

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

ANOTHER mid-week wedding to attract wide interest in the Mansfield area was the marriage at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Park Avenue Baptist church of Miss Helen Ada White to Rev. Sylvester F. Porter. Rev. H. E. Tropf, pastor of the Grace Gospel Tabernacle, officiated before the altar which was decorated with palms, beauty baskets of gladioli, pompoons and roses and lighted candles in tall candelabra

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. White, 187 Gerke avenue. She approached the altar on the arm of her father. Miss White chose a gown of white chenille brocaded slipper satin for her marriage.

It was made with a sweetheart neckline, leg-o-mutton sleeves which ended in points over the wrists, and miniature buttons down the back of the blouse to the full-backed skirt. The skirt was completed by a short train. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a pearl trimmed crown, and the bride wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hurley Attends.

She was attended by Mrs. Jean Hurley, Mansfield, who was attired in an aqua taffeta frock trimmed with purple velvet. She also wore a purple velvet turban with veiling trim, and carried a bouquet of gladioli, roses, pompons and celosia.

Clifford McIntire, Coroapolis, Pa., was the best man. Ushers were Clarence White, brother of the bride, Charles White, Shelby, nephew of the bride; Robert Murray, Mansfield, cousin of the bridegroom and Carl Oswalt.

Mrs. Louise Reynolds presided at the church organ, and the Misses Minnie and Rose Schuster were the vocalists. Nuptial music preceding the ceremony included "Cantilena" by Goltermann, "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, "Ave Maria" by Schubert "Dreams" by McAmis "Love Dream" by Liszt and "Oh, Perfect Love" by Barnby. The Misses Schuster sang "Near to the Heart of God," a favorite hymn of the couple.

During the double ring ceremony Mrs. Reynolds played "I Love You Truly" by Bond, and the Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches were also used.

Rev. Porter, son of Mrs. Belle Porter, Noblesville Ind., is serving as pastor of the Calvary Baptist church in that community. He attended the Shiloh high school, the Moody Bible Institute and Asbury college at Wilmore, Ky. where he received his A. B. degree.

The former Miss White attended the Shiloh high school and Ashland college. She was also a student at the Missionary Training Institute at Nyack, N. Y. and received her A. B. degree from the Seattle Pacific college at Seattle, Wash. She formerly taught at the John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed Junior high schools.

Mother Wears Wine.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. White selected a wine velvet costume, while Mrs. Porter chose black crepe. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

After the ceremony 75 guests were entertained at the bride's home. White tapers and yellow pompons were used as the decorative note, and a large yellow and white cake made in the form of a church altar centered the bride's table.

The newlyweds are now on a southern Ohio motor trip. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue crepe jacket dress with black accessories. Rev. and Mrs. Porter will go directly from their honeymoon to Noblesville where they will be at home at 854 West Cherry street.

Speaker

Atty. John Howard Gongwer, above, will speak on "What Every Woman Over Twenty-one Should Know" at the meeting of the Mansfield Federation of Women tomorrow at the Women's club at 2:30 p. m. The affair will be a business meeting and directors tea.

Schedule Tryouts Of Music Group Saturday Night

The Mansfield Little Symphony, which was organized three years ago, will begin its season with a rehearsal Saturday night at 7 p. m. at the Eagle hall, Prof. Eugene Weinberger, director and organizer, announced today. Tryouts for all musicians interested will be held at this time. There is an especial need for strings, brass, woodwind and percussion players, Weinberger stated.

The purpose of the group, which has given concerts in Mansfield and vicinity during the past three seasons, is to acquaint musicians with symphonic works.

Weinberger, violinist, teacher and conductor, studied under Dr. Jeno Hubay, world famous violinist, at the Budapest Academy of Music. He was conductor of the Mansfield Symphony for six years, and has appeared as guest conductor in many European capitals.

Rehearsals will be held weekly, and a number of concerts are being planned for the coming season.

Miss Lantz to Wed Later This Month

With a party at the Colonial Guest House last night the coming marriage of Miss Esther Lantz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lantz, 254 South Mulberry street, was announced. The bride's mother entertained, and prizes were won by Mrs. Ernest Schafer and Mrs. H. P. Speas. These were given to the honoree.

The nuptial facts were revealed by large place cards in the form of cartoons on the small tables which were centered with bowls containing candle water lilies. Place favors were miniature crystal candelabra

Among the 18 guests present were Mrs Albert McGaw and Mrs. Dale Weber, Shelby.

Miss Lantz will become the bride of Harry C. Lytle, 228 Park avenue west, son of Harry Lytle, Columbus, at the Park Avenue Baptist church in an open church ceremony Oct. 26 at 2:30 p. m.

Clinic Committee Members Have Tickets

Shown in the above picture are three of the members of the ticket committee for the series of four book review-movies to be given at the Ohio theater under the auspices of the Mansfield Dental clinic. The tickets, which will be sold in books of four, have been distributed to all members of the committee and club representatives throughout the city. Seated in the photograph are Mrs. K. L. Woodman, left, and Mrs. F. T. Wendt. Mrs. James Brown, chairman, is standing. Tickets are available to the public, and the first program will be given Oct. 16 at 1 p. m. with Mrs. Catherine Bang, Cleveland, as the first reviewer.

GILBERTS ENTERTAIN AT LARGE RECEPTION

ONE of the most unusual receptions ever given in Mansfield was that at the St. Paul Lutheran church last night given by Rev. and Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert in celebration of their 10th wedding anniversary. More than 275 guests were entertained in the main church auditorium with a musical program after which refreshments were served in the church basement.

Rev. and Mrs. Gilbert were married at the Fourth Lutheran church of Springfield, Oct. 2, 1930. Mrs. Gilbert was head of the modern language department at Wittenberg Academy at Springfield before her marriage. The couple spent their honeymoon in Europe where Rev. Gilbert studied music, theology and philosophy and she studied piano.

Upon their return to Ohio Rev. Gilbert served as pastor in Lucas for one year, and then came to Mansfield where he has served for the past eight years.

Rev. Gilbert spoke briefly and just before the musical program O. L. Seybold, president of the church board, presented Mrs. Gilbert with an orchid, the pastor with a gardenia, and the couple with a purse from the congregation. Following the reception they were presented with a shower of miscellaneous items.

The program included "The Last Spring" by Grieg played by Miss Louise Seybold, organist; "Romance" by Rubenstein played by a trio made up of Ralph Beilstein, violin, Ernest Schafer, cello, and O. L. Seybold, piano.

Continuing, Lawrence Chamberlain, tenor, and Miss Estella Arras, soprano, accompanied by Miss Seybold, sang "At Dawning" by Cadman, and Mr. Beilstein played "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell as a violin solo with Mr. Seybold accompanying.

Miss Jane Weithrick, soprano, sang "O Promise Me" by DeKoven and "Ich Liebe Dich" by Grieg with Miss Seybold as accompanist. The trio followed with "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, after which Rev. Gilbert, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert, sang the request number "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" by O'Hara. The concluding selection was "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach played by the organist. Many of these numbers were used as nuptial selections at the couple's wedding.

The church altar was attractively decorated with cut flowers and two graduated, branched candelabra.

Following the program the guests were taken to the basement where refreshments were served. The entire room was decorated with large baskets and vases of garden flowers in all varieties, and the table was centered with an arrangement of pink and white flowers and lighted tapers.

Refreshments included tiny white cakes iced with pink "10's." Mrs. Paul Lee, president of the guild, and Mrs. William Bolley, president of the misionary society, poured.

Sappho Club Has Lunch, Program Of Varied Music

Luncheon was served to members of the Sappho club yesterday when they met at the Women's Club with Mrs. J. B. Weigel, Mrs. J. G. Wallace, Mrs. J. H. Todd, Mrs. J. L. Sheriff and Mrs. C. F. Sheriff. "Cradle Rockers of Chemurgy" was the title of the paper given by Mrs. G. G. Rohleder. She outlined the lives of five leading chemurgists.

Mrs. R. B. Barker sang "Cradle Song" by Kreisler and "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn" by Goddard. Mrs. Todd, pianist, and her grandson, clarinetist, played "Concertino" by Carl von Weber, and Mrs. A. C. Butterfield and Mrs. Todd played the piano duet "Overture" from "Oberon" by the same composer.

A guest was Mrs. Mary Smith, East Liverpool. During the business meeting the dental clinic movie-book review program was discussed, and tickets were distributed.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at the Club with Mrs. J. H. Bristor as hostess. The program will be in charge of Mrs. C. F. Ewing, Mrs. H. H. Clingan and Miss Mary Proctor.

Reception Honors Department Officer, Mrs. Frank Brannon

MEMBERS of the Auxiliary No. 100, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war and their friends were guests last night in the Memorial building at the reception given in honor of Mrs. Hazel Brannon, department vice president. The program came to the customary patriotic opening with the presentation of the colors, after which Mrs. Grace Downs, past department president, gave the greetings.

Department Commander Thomas Ridenour, Crestline, who was in attendance with Mrs. Ridenour, gave the response from the G. A. R., and then Mrs. Brannon was presented with a gift from the club and one from her daughter. Mrs. Margery Ludwig entertained with two humorous readings.

Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church, was the guest speaker. He took Democracy as his subject. Mrs. Brannon gave the response. All the department officers and guests were then called on for remarks, and the charter members and past presidents were presented.

A vocal selection was given by Mrs. Brannon, Mrs. Georgia Cook, Mrs. O. F. Shivley and Miss Peggy Brannon. This was a demonstration of the making of the flag by Betsy Ross, and was followed by a display of a flag costume by Marilyn Cook.

Officers present were Mrs. Pearl Gibbony, department president, and Mrs. Blanche English, department secretary, both of Newark; Mrs. Dolly Mattox, department inspector, Wooster, Mrs. Edith Nile, past department president, Alliance, and Mrs. Louella Shaver, Ashland, past department officer.

Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Ella McHugh, general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Nettie Kornoely, Mrs. Eunice Clelland, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Catherine Pfeiffer, Mrs. Edith Snyder, Mrs. Sydney White, Mrs. Ruth Wilkinson, Mrs. Downs, Mrs. Thelma Hartman and Mrs. Treva Campbell.

Mrs. Downs, past department president, and Mrs. Hartman, past department secretary, presided at the table when refreshments were served. The next regular meeting will be held Oct. 16.

Two Friends Honor Mrs. Harold Gongwer

The Misses Betty Davis, 224 Clairmont avenue, and Edith Swaidner entertained last night with a linen shower for Mrs. Harold Gongwer, the former Miss Rachel Caton. Games and contests were the diversion of the evening with prizes going to Miss Myrna Levering. Mrs. Betty Stober and the honoree.

The awards were presented to the guest of honor along with the shower gifts. Esther Ruth Beer, dressed as a bride, made the presentation. The hostesses also gave Mrs. Gongwer a linen gift.

Name Committees At Session of Mothers Club

Various committee chairmen for the coming year were appointed yesterday afternoon during a meeting of the Bowman school Mothers' club at the school building. Mrs. Harry Constance was in charge of the session, which was attended by 55 regular members and ten new members.

Those committees named are: relief, Mrs. Willard Whittemire; rooms, Mrs. L. B. Bourns; floral, Mrs. Stanley Terman; social, Mrs. S. D. Thatcher; publicity, Mrs. E. E. Beechler; hospitality, Mrs. Katherine Moorhead; kitchen, Mrs. May Stevenson and Mrs. Robert Stevenson; nurses' room, Mrs. Anna Butts; teachers' room, Mrs. Don Hartig. A Mothersingers group was organized during the meeting, and it will be directed by Mrs. C. D. Platt.

The members are planning to have a masquerade party and poke lunch on Oct. 25, with Mrs. Kenneth Bell in charge. A demonstration at the Ohio Public Service company will be an event of Oct. 10, and arrangements are being made by Mrs. Clyde Woolard. The next regular meeting will be held at the school on Nov. 6. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thatcher and her committee during the social hour yesterday, and it was announced that the club has made donations of money for the teachers' rooms, books and general school relief.

Here is the thundering finish of the Futurity, world's richest race for two-year-olds, at Belmont, L. I. Our Boots (right), Arcaro up, took $67,000, the winner's share. King Cole, Stout up, was second and Whirlaway (8), Longden up, was third.

De Correvont Happy Over Let-Up In Publicity Wave

By TOM SILER

EVANSTON, Ill.—(AP)— William John De Correvont has been all but ignored by football's drum-beaters this season and no one is more pleased about this than De Correvont himself.

A year ago, the tow-headed halfback was riding the crest of a tremendous publicity wave carrying the Northwestern eleven along with him to mythical heights. You know the result. Charitably speaking, Northwestern and Sophomore De Correvont were something less than sensational.

Now the Wildcats are short on those bulky, seasoned linemen who studded the squad in 1939 but are long on a real battling spirit and the desire to show up the "experts" who listed them below at least four other Big Ten elevens.

De Correvont appears ready at last to cut the swath in college circles that he did as a Chicago high school boy three years ago.

Two weeks ago no one seemed to know whether Bill would play much this season. On July 28 he underwent an appendectomy, but has bounced back rapidly. He now weighs 184 pounds and is ready for a full game's workout.

"I was never in as good shape as I am right now," he said yesterday. "We're all set out here this year to have some fun. The situation is much better than a year ago and I'm sure our team is ready to go. I know I am."

The Wildcats try the comeback road Saturday at Syracuse, alma mater of Head Coach Lynn Waldorf, who hasn't been back to the old school since he graduated in 1924.

What They Said After Opener

CINCINNATI—(AP)—What they said after the first game of the world series.

Manager Del Baker of the Tigers: "It was just a typical Tiger barrage. The old men can hit. We're going to win just as quickly as we can."

Manager Bill McKechnie of the Reds: "Tomorrow's another day. It was just one of those things and with Walters I think it will be a different story. Derringer had plenty of stuff and most of those second inning hits were made on really good pitches."

Buck Newsom, winning pitcher: "It was the first one (world series) I ever pitched and I won it. Boy, it was warm out there. I had good stuff but I wasn't trying to put it all on. They're a hustling bunch, though, and tough to pitch to. You've got to be careful."

Paul Derringer, losing pitcher: "That's baseball for you. You get all ready, you feel fine, you have all your stuff and then they tee off on you. I had everything I ever had. The real reason I wanted to win was for McKechnie. He's tops and I feel pretty bad about letting him down."

Rudy York, who hit a triple and a single: "We were just hitting. Derringer seemed to have good stuff."

Cincinnati fans: Nothing.

EXTRA POLICE POSTED TO CURB CINCY VANDALS

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Extra police guards were posted at Crosley Field for the second game of the world series today after reports of pickpockets were made and one suspect arrested.

Victims of pickpockets at the first game were Frank Callahan, of Great Bend, Kan., who lost $173, Walter Dinkleman, Cincinnati, $30, and Russell O'Neill, Cincinnati, $22.

ENDS INJURED

PITTSBURGH—(AP)— Both of Carnegie Tech's regular ends may be on the sidelines when the Tartans meet their first stiff competition of the season—Holy Cross—at Worcester, Mass., October 12. Ted Fisher is still nursing a shoulder separation and Bob Church has been able to practice very little because of a bad leg.

Reds Bag Star Rookie In 1941 Draft

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds saved $17,500 and may have gotten the prize plum in the annual baseball draft last night.

They chose Mike Christoff, outfielder for Oakland in the Pacific Coast league, for whom they once offered $25,000 and two players.

The bid was turned down when Mike was leading his loop in home runs early in the season. He went into a slump but wound up hitting better than .300, so he still may be a good buy at $7,500.

Twelve other minor leaguers were brought up through the draft, costing the major teams $7,500 if they came from double-A clubs and $6,000 if from class A or A-1.

They were:

Second Baseman Floyd "Pep" Young, released by the Pittsburgh Pirates to Atlanta of the Southern Association (A-1) Monday; Pitcher Bill Swift, another ex-Pirate, from St. Paul of the American Association (AA); Al Sherer, pitcher, from New Orleans of the Southern; and Thompson Livingston, catcher for Springfield, Mass., in the Eastern league (A), all by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Reuben F. Melton, star pitcher for Columbus in the American Association, by the Philadelphia Phillies.

Peter Suder, third baseman for Binghamton in the Eastern, on option from Kansas City of the American Association, by the Philadelphia Athletics.

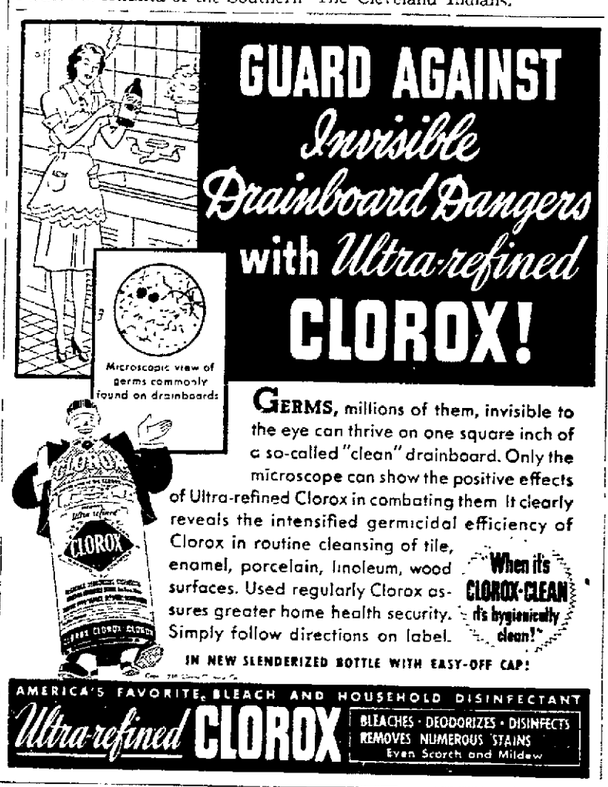
RANDALL TRACK CLOSES

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Lack of public support was given as the reason today why North Randall track's first fall running race meeting in many years has closed 14 days ahead of time. The meeting opened Sept. 25 and was scheduled to last for 16 days.

NORWALK GRIDDER OUT

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(U.P.)—Because of an arm injury suffered last week against California, Norman Call, regular backfield man from Norwalk, O., will be replaced by Bob Kresjsa, Shaker Heights, O., against Michigan state.



WENDELL L. WILLKIE for PRESIDENT

• A great Ohio newspaper, which has hitherto supported only Democratic candidates for President, said of the Republican nominee, Wendell L. Willkie: "His nomination came as the answer to a specific, if unspoken, demand for a man particularly trained to meet the problems which will face the administration at Washington in the next four years." Defend America for Americans. Defeat the third term. Elect a President fitted for the job. Vote for Wendell L. Willkie.

JOHN W. BRICKER for GOVERNOR

Ohio Needs Him

• OHIO knows the costs in scandal, shame and money, of the political machine which had it by the throat from 1935 through 1938. Since that time, Governor John W. Bricker has restored both self-respect and solvency to state affairs by insisting on competence and common honesty throughout his administration. Voters now have the choice of either retaining Governor Bricker in office, or turning Ohio back to the same brazen crew from which he rescued it two years ago.

Recall the newspaper headlines during the previous administration—the "hot mix" mess, "trackless trackers" rake-off, "shakedown" and "chiseling" on state purchases, Senate graft probe, politics in old age pensions and countless other evidences of corrupt bungling. Compare this with the decent economical administration of John W. Bricker. Then decide!

HAROLD H. BURTON for U.S. SENATOR

Danger threatens America. Send a Republican Senator to Washington—a man experienced in public affairs and who strongly believes that the government belongs to the people instead of to an executive bureaucracy. Harold H. Burton has served his city, his state and his country with high public spirit. The great city of Cleveland has elected him Mayor for three consecutive terms. His record gives assurance that he will effectively serve Ohio and the nation in the United States Senate.

AIR AMBULANCE CORPS FORMED

Famous Aviatrix Heads New Civilian Organization For Use in War.

NEW YORK —(NS)— An armada of "air ambulances" has been mobilized by a civilian organization for use in war and in relief of disaster-stricken areas of the United States.

The mobilization was planned and executed by Relief Wings, Inc., whose executive director is Ruth Nichols, well-known aviatrix.

In less than two months Relief Wings has set the stage and directed two simulated aerial rescue maneuvers involving hundreds of small, privately owned land and seaplanes operating along the North Atlantic coast from six states.

A test "rescue" of 2,000 supposed American refugees from a mythical fire on an ocean liner off Gloucester, Mass., featured one mass flight. Another was aimed at aiding victims of a "hurricane" near Greenport, Long Island. A third is planned for the Philadelphia area in the latter part of September.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Pan American Airways board chairman, gave Relief Wings its first airplane, a two-place Beechcraft generally stationed at Roosevelt Field.

Besides the Whitney ship, the organization also commands a fleet of private planes piloted by their owners. The Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, Red Cross, radio amateurs and Civilian Aeronautics Authority are co-operating with the Relief Wings plan for exercising similar units throughout the country.

The organization also has the backing of religious groups and the aviation industry.

English Factory Girls Save on Hose For Defense.

CHAPEL-EN-LE-FRITH, Derbyshire, Eng. — (U.P.) — A deputation of 250 factory girls from a factory in Chapel-en-le-Frith has persuaded the management to lift its ban on stockingless legs.

They want to put $5,000 a year into National Savings—by going barelegged.

When they were asked to start a savings group, 25-year-old Gladys Thompson called the girls together and put up the no-stockings plan.

Oldest Business Institution on Panhandle Plains Closes Up Shop.

AMARILLO, Tex. —(U.P.)— The romantic era on the Panhandle Plains came closer to its passing with the closing of the city's oldest business institution - the blacksmith shop.

The saga of Ridings and his 50 years of smithing parallels the story of the development of the cattle and wheat country of the Panhandle. His is a story forged as indelibly into the history of the state as the marks of the irons he hammered to brand the "white-faces" of the cattle country.

Ridings came as a small boy to Amarillo with his father, A. L. Ridings. In 1890 his father opened a blacksmith shop and it has continued in operation by the family through the years that saw the horse, the boots, the branding irons dominant in the life of the range.

The smith's shop moved several times. The first building, Ridings said, was an extremely fragile structure.

"When the wind blew right hard, I never knew which side of the street that building was going to end up on. The roof would whip up and down and the side boards would push in and out."

"Father never wanted me to get started in smithing," he said, "and as a young fellow I tried my hand at being a cowboy. Worked for the old XIT in 1891 and the next year moved out to New Mexico and worked on the old Circle S ranch."

He soon "got his fill" of that and returned to Amarillo to enter partnership with his father. The father and son worked together until about 15 years ago when the elder man dropped out of business affairs.

Riding's forges created many of the famous brands of the cattle country.

"Out of our shops," he related, "have come the brands which marked the flanks of cows belonging to the XIT, the T-Anchor, the LX, the Bivins, the James Brothers, and the Curtis Brothers and a lot of others."

Now Ridings will retire. He will keep his hand in iron work, however, by setting up a portable forge at his home and making fancy iron grill work.

FUND DROPS

County's Balance $4,464 Under Figure For Sept. 1.

Richland county's general fund dropped $4,464 during September to $38,171 on Oct. 1, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe's monthly financial statement showed today.

The county spent $20,452 during the month as compared to receipts totaling $15,985.

The report listed overdrafts, or advances against the last half tax settlement, amounting to $138,600. Of that amount, $130,000 went to Mansfield schools. The Sharon township schools received $4,000; Union Rural schools, $3,500, and Butler township, $1,100.

CIVIC CHORUS MAPS ELECTION

Election of officers will take place at the next meeting of Mansfield Civic Chorus, formerly the Junior Civic chorus, Tuesday when the organization meets at the Y. M. C. A.

At their last meeting a nominating committee, composed of Ruth Dye, Geraldine Harley and Horace Braden, was appointed by Lillian Damlos, president. The committee will suggest a list of new officers at the meeting, after which nominations will be heard from the floor.

WOMAN GIVEN $450 VERDICT

A jury in common pleas court yesterday awarded Mrs. Lucy Denero, Mansfield, a judgment for $450 in her $5,120 damage suit against Dr. W. Stern, Mansfield dentist.

Mrs. Denero, represented by Atty. George W. Biddle, contended that a part of the root of a tooth which Dr. Stern extracted was left in the gum, causing an infection.

The jury recessed until Friday after deciding the case.

TAIL LIGHT TO PROTECT 'COONS

HUNTINGTON, Ind.—(U.P.)—If you decide to do a little hunting down this way this fall and spot a raccoon with a red tail light--don't shoot!

That is the plea of the Huntington County Hunters' association, who have been capturing live female raccoons and fastening red reflectors to their tails, in the hope that hunters will avoid killing them and thereby let the coons multiply for better hunting in the near future.

SELECT STOCKS TOP ADVANCE IN DAY'S TRADING

Steels and Heavy Industry Issues Pacing Upward Trend on Street.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Steels and heavy industrials led another selective advance in today's stock market.

Attracting support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, DuPont, N. Y. Central, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, United Aircraft, International Harvester, Chrysler and Studebaker.

Bonds and commodities were irregularly higher. Securities at London were quiet and steady.

Home business prospects, brokers said, overshadowed war developments abroad as a market influence.

Among items given attention in boardrooms were:

Dun and Bradstreet estimated a sharp upturn in the country's bank clearings for the week ended yesterday, the total touching a new peak since early July.

The American Telephone and Telegraph compnay reported an expansion of 109,900 telephones in service during September against a gain of 66,300 stations in the preceding month.

ALTERATIONS

Residents Resent Hick-Town Name, Change It to Skokie.

SKOKIE, Ill. —(AP)— A few changes are in order around this village—such as: Changing the names of 28 clubs and the chamber of commerce, alterations in the postal guide, the telephone directory, state maps, the lettering on railroad stations and official letterheads.

For years the village was known as Niles Center, but the trustees decided this had a "hick town" connotation and have just ordered the name changed to Skokie.

WORKERS LEAVE PLANT

SEBRING —(AP)— A small group of employes at the large Limoges China Co. tied up the plant operations yesterday when they walked out to protest discharge of fellow workers. James M. Duffy, president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, called the act an "outlaw strike."

MANSFIELDERS AT DEDICATION

and berets in the church's purple (which is fuschia color.) In sharp contrast to the brilliant robes of the higher churchmen were the somber brown robes and cord girdles of the Trappist monks and the black robes of the Dominican and Benedictine monks.

John Hecht, 82, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Philip Hecht, 70, who returned to their homes in Mansfield last night, were among the casualties at the dedicatory services Tuesday. Both fainted from exhaustion in the crowd and a Toledo physician was called to administer first aid.

Abbot Esser, of the Benedictine order of St. Minard, Ind., one of four abbots in the United States, was in black silk robes with heavy crucifix of solid gold on his breast. The parish priests wore their altar robes of black with white linen and lace surplice.

In the brilliant robes of a cardinal marched His Eminence, Rodrique Cardinal Villeneuve, archbishop of Quebec. He was clothed in scarlet silk from head to foot, the sun glistening on his ring of a huge square amethyst surrounded by two rows of diamonds. Carrying his long train of scarlet silk were six tiny page boys in black velvet suits and plumed velvet hats. The cardinal lifted his hands in blessing as he passed along the line of march.

Inside the cathedral were almost 3,000 persons, half of them standing, to hear the pontifical mass of dedication. A symphony orchesta in the balcony under the great rose window, accompanied the mass, sometimes sinking to a mere whisper of music and sometimes rising to a crescendo of religious fervor.

The Holy Rosary edifice is said to be one of the most magnificient in the United States and its interior is a combination of grey stone, colored marble, murals and mosaics in brilliant colors. At the end of the long nave is the sanctuary, dominated by the vast, striking expanse of color above. High overhead, lustrous and bejeweled, burn three golden tabernacle lamps. On one side of the sanctuary is the bishop's throne, on the other is the high pulpit, and in the center is the altar, glowing with the color of many jewels.

A chorus of 200 selected voices and the orchestra filled the vast expanses of the church with music during the mass. Cardinal Villeneuve officiated at the pontifical mass, and Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, formerly of the Toledo diocese and under whom the cathedral was started 15 years ago, delivered the sermon. Archbishop Schrembs of Cleveland, who also served the Toledo diocese during the construction of the cathedral, was too ill to attend the ceremonies. The present bishop, Karl J. Alter, is the third diocese head to have had a part in completing the cathedral.

Archbishop Stritch, who is greatly beloved by the people of his former diocese, gave the altar in the sacristy in memory of his mother. One of the interesting features of the cathedral is the Smiling Madonna statue of white marble above the altar in the Blessed Virgin's chapel. There are few statues of the Madonna which show her smiling and these may be used only in cathedrals or churches which are specifically named for her and dedicated to her.

The cathedral was started in 1925, its magnificence planned in years that were affluent ones, but as Msgr. Dean (who had the misfortune to be in the hospital on the days to which he had looked forward for 15 years) said: "The cathedral embodies our bravest hopes and brightest dreams. The dew of its benediction is perpetually falling on our homes and our children will come to adulthood with the beauty of it intertwined in their lives. The Holy Rosary cathedral is not for us alone, but for all mankind."

LEADERS AVER WILLKIE RALLY CLINCHES OHIO

Rep. Bender Describes It as Cleveland's Greatest Political Meeting.

the packed Music Hall on the other side of it.

Governor Bricker was the principal speaker. He said "I want to report that all of the racketeers are driven out of your state government and they will stay out."

He promised state cooperation in the defense program and "I pledge you this will be done without new taxes."

Burton warned of the strain of the presidency and said "if a voter is unwilling that Henry Wallace (vice presidential candidate) be president, he should not vote for Roosevelt."

Admirers in the hotel lobby and corridors waited for a glimpse of Mrs. Willkie who emerged to reiterate she would make no campaign speeches or any other kind of speeches and would write no column if her husband becomes president.

"I am content that my husband do the writing and talking," she concluded.

Willkie Attacks Defense Politics

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie extended his presidential campaign into Ohio and Pennsylvania industrial cities today after accusing the Roosevelt administration of playing "politics with preparedness."

While cheering men and women who filled the 28,000 seats of Cleveland's public auditorium waved a multitude of small American flags, Willkie declared last night:

"I say that we are now exposed to the aggressors because of the political theories and the political ambitions of a few men. We are not prepared and we are not getting prepared."

The Republican presidential nominee, interrupted time after time by applause, described the defense job as "appalling in magnitude" and offered this program in event of his election:

Aid to Great Britain "even if it means the sacrifice of some speed in building up our own air fleet;"

Coordination of American preparedness with that of Canada;

Selection of the "most experienced and the ablest men" for defense posts, using the army and navy's plans, and limiting the newcomers' authority to the term of the emergency;

Revision of the tax system and other steps "to remove every possible obstacle that stands in the way of new investment;

Economic cooperation with Latin America, "giving these neighbors every incentive to rid themselves of the German fifth column."

"The people of America do not want war," Willkie said almost at the outset, and the audience waved its flags and cheered.

Neither, the candidate added, do the people want "any more international incidents . . . dramatic gestures . . . swashbuckling words."

"Until I had built up the strength of America," he said later, "I would refrain from inviting aggressive pacts against the American people."

After describing the German-Italian-Japanese pact as "aimed at the United States," as he did in earlier talks yesterday, Willkie declared that a survey of American military equipment shows "unpleasant facts."

It will take seven years to acquire a two-ocean navy, he said and six years to build a second set of Panama canal locks.

Talks at Youngstown, O., and New Castle, Pa., were on his program this morning.

September Police Report at Shelby Shows Theft Loss

SHELBY — Largest loss from stolen property since Police Chief Leroy Coffey has headed the Shelby police department was shown in the monthly police report for September.

Loss totaled $948.73 but $830 was recovered making a net loss of only $118.73, the report showed.

Property valued at $2,435.73 has been stolen in Shelby during the first three quarters of this year, the report pointed out. Of this amount, property valued at $1,240 was recovered by police leaving a net loss of $1,195.73.

During the month traffic accidents decreased as compared with August. Only seven traffic accidents were listed in the report for September as compared with nine for August. Police answered 72 calls during the month.

PARALYSIS CASE

GALION—Galion's one case of infantile paralysis is that of Paul Wildenthaler, jr., two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wildenthaler. The boy is recovering from a mild case of the disease. He was stricken a little over a week ago.

SERVICE AT LEXINGTON

LEXINGTON—A special "Rally Day" service will be held at the Lexington Church of Christ Sunday, with Rev. Jack Mellick of officiating at the 11 a. m. service. Sunday school will be held at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Clarence Griebling, superintendent, in charge.

Mansfield Pastor, Wife at Reception

Despite thick clouds and poor visibility, British warplanes were officially reported to have struck smashing overnight blows at German oil plants, munitions factories, railway facilities and other military objectives.

Among the objectives attacked, the air ministry said, was the great Krupp works at Essen—one of Germany's biggest armament plants.

The docks at Hamburg and Wilhelmshaven also were said to have been heavily bombed, as were port facilities and shipping at Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Flushing and Antwerp.

The Royal Air Force also was reported to have smashed again at German "invasion bases" along the channel, attacking the often-bombed ports of Ostend, Calais, Cherbourg and Ushant.

British losses in the raids were put at two planes.

Jap Attack on Singapore Seen

ROME —(AP)— Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia said today that Japan is preparing to attack Singapore, Britain's great Far Eastern fortress, in the event that Britain obstructs Japan's policy in the Orient or the United States enters the war.

Mario Appelius, the paper's leading commentator, calling Singapore " the pivot of British positions in east Asia," declared:

"Japan is seeking to place itself in the best possible position strategically against Singapore in anticipation of being forced by English hostility or the intervention of new allies of England to attack and throw down the pillar of Singapore.

Declare British Raiders Repulsed

BERLIN —(NS)— For the second successive time British raiders attacking Berlin were driven away from the central part of the German capital early today during an air raid alarm of one hour and 20 minutes.

An official announcement said that some British planes again headed for Berlin but that only a few succeeded in piercing the anti-aircraft barrage. No bombs were dropped, authorities stated.

About an hour after the alarm sounded one R. A. F. plane managed to pass over the city itself, flying at a low altitude in a westerly direction. The plane drew a short but heavy outburst of fire from ground batteries.

Meanwhile the government revealed important changes in Nazi air tactics, revealing that in the most recent attacks on England Nazi air raiders struck at numerous British air bases in a widespread effort to curb R. A. F. raids on the continent.

In addition, it was disclosed, fast German fighter planes were used instead of bombers in diving attacks which started many fires.

WOMEN MEET

Missionary Groups Conduct Session at Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS—An all day session of the 31st annual Institute of the Sandusky branch of United Brethren Women's Misionary asociations attracted more than 200 women from the districts to the local church Tuesday. The session was the fifth of the series and the institute moved on to Somerset church in Toledo for Wednesday's sesions and closed today at Woodville.

Miss Norma Vesper, nurse at the U. B. Clinic hospital in Sierra Leona, West Africa, was the principal speaker and talked of her experience in the missionary field for past 25 years.

Recognition was paid to Cardington and Biddle for their high attendance.

Meals were served at noon and in the evening by the church groups.

Enters Sheriff's Office, Surrenders As Parole Breaker

Telling deputy sheriffs that he understood he was wanted as a parole violator, Charles Wareham, 29, of Sebring, a former Mansfielder, walked into the sheriff's office at the county jail yesterday and surrendered.

Wareham, who was a trusty at the jail for a short time more than a year ago, was paroled from the Mansfield reformatory last spring after serving a term for non-support.

He was returned to the reformatory yesterday afternoon by Leo J. Schaepe, district parole officer.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn P. Freeman said Wareham had failed to make the required reports on his behavior to the reformatory and quit a job and left the county without the consent of parole authorities.

Arrested yesterday by deputy sheriffs for violation of his probation, William Meyer, 48, Rossland, was held in the county jail today for probate court. He was placed on probation in 1938 after pleading guilty to charges of neglect and contributing to the delinquency of two minor children.

Mack, Boudreau Reported Getting Double Present Salaries.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland News said today in a dispatch from Cincinnati that Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack, the all-league keystone combination of the Cleveland Indians, had signed their 1941 contracts after receiving bonuses in excess of $2,000.

The two received about $5,000 apiece for the past year, their first full season in the majors, and probably will get double that amount under the new contracts, the News said.

ENDEAVOR GROUP IN CONVENTION

SHELBY — Christian Endeavor members, alumni, and friends will celebrate the 45th anniversary convention of the Richland county Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church here.

A banquet will be held at the church, following which there will be a devotional program led by Miss Twila Setterfield. Those planning to attend are asked to get in touch with Fred Ott, Shelby.

the huge development but it was suggested that the program could be financed from more than $250,000,000 of federal-aid funds appropriated by congress for use in states which matched allotments dollar for dollar.

The state bureau of aeronautics spokesman described as a "survey, rather than a long-range plan" a recently published Civil Aeronautics Administration report citing need for construction for 52 new Ohio landing fields, with improvements to 15 others.

"Under the present appropriation bill," he added, "federal money cannot be spent for buying land or constructing buildings, except in most unusual cases where such action is certified by the secretary of war or navy."

Such an exception, the spokesman said, probably would be made at Cincinnati where low-lying Lunken airport was too subject to river fog to meet war department standards.

A bulletin to the bureau from Col. Donald H. Connolly, federal administrator of civil aeronautics, said that:

"The important thing is for communities not to assume that long lists of airports in our survey are going to be built immediately from current funds. The list involves some 4,000 locations, whereas the program now before congress will not exceed a few hundred fields."

Colonel Connolly said the defense factor would "dwarf all other considerations" in setting up the contemplated program.

FORESEES LIFE MADE EASIER BY RESEARCH

they could produce, Kettering said.

"The trouble is that we don't make progress fast enough. Industrial research is out of step with the progress of civilization. We need more projects, and don't laugh about the PWA and WPA projects, either, for sponsoring them is probably as good a way as any to pile up a national debt," he said with a grin. "If industries don't invent projects the politicians will."

We pay too much attention to history and not enough to the future, Kettering asserted.

"We back into the future and get a lot of surprises. We ought to turn around and face it. Let's have a course in future history instead of ancient history. I'm interested in what's going to happen to me, not what's already happened, because I expect to spend the rest of my life in the future."

The famous engineer told an amazing story of his work in industrial laboratories, modestly crediting some of his most noted discoveries and developments to chance or to fellow workers.

In one of his frequent jests, Kettering said a research laboratory's purpose is to "keep your customers reasonably dissatisfied with what they have, and help you to find out what you're going to do when you can't do what you're doing now."

Kettering told of the endless work of developing new and better automobiles and fuel, and of his firm's building of Diesel locomotives, trucks, and buses. He predicted a great future for the Diesel industry.

"In spite of all our work with engines and fuels, we still get only five per cent of the actual energy from our fuel," he explained.

Kettering's discussion of science and its startling discoveries seemed as understandable as an elementary school text book.

Scientific research is not half as complex as some scientists and teachers would make us believe, he said.

"In engineering we have a lot of big Latin and Greek words and we don't know what they mean. We've taken the same old basic stuff and given it a new name. After all, a few simple rules govern science and research and if we understand them we know what we're doing. We've got to get down to basic facts," he asserted.

Illustrating the public unconcern for important engineering discoveries, Kettering told of the invention of the airplane by the Wright brothers in Dayton 37 years ago and how a Dayton newspaper editor showed only passing interest in the report of the first successful flight.

"They didn't think it was worth mentioning then, but now the whole future of the civilized world hinges on the use of the airplane in the European war," he commented.

Kettering was introduced by C. P. Robinson of the Ideal Electric company, a friend of the noted engineer for a number of years. The meeting, first of the season for the Mansfield society, was in charge of Bradford Johnson of the Ohio Brass company, president of the organization. Kettering's talk followed a dinner in the Westinghouse cafeteria.

The speed-up call will require that the great nation-wide lottery, the method to be used for drawing names, be held soon after Oct 16 registration day.

The Richland county draft board, comprising Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, R. B. Gardner, and Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, yesterday recommended 27 Richland countians for appointment to seven county draft agencies to handle the registration and drafting of men for a year's training.

It was expected that about 75,000 men will be called for service in the nation in November, with another 75,000 due a month later.

DANIEL ROPER SERIOUSLY ILL

Former Commerce Secretary Has Pneumonia; Once Greeted King, Queen.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Daniel C. Roper, former New Deal secretary of commerce and minister to Canada, is seriously ill with pneumonia, Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, physician to the 73-year-old Democratic party stalwart, reported today.

Roper, a South Carolinian, was President Roosevelt's first secretary of Commerce, serving from the inception of the New Deal in 1933 until 1938. He then was named minister to Canada to greet King George and Queen Elizabeth on their American tour. Recently he has maintained law offices in Washington.

Bloedorn said the pneumonia developed from a chill suffered by Roper a week ago today.

Members of President Roosevelt's original cabinet selections who have died were the secretaries of war and navy, respectively, George Dern and Claude Swanson; Secretary of Treasury William Woodin, and Attorney General Thomas Walsh. Woodin died after retiring on account of ill health and Walsh died before he took the oath of office.

craft Production Lord Beaverbrook.

Instead, Eden, Halifax, Duff Cooper and Beaverbrook were left in their respective offices.

Other government appointments:

Viscount Cranborne, heretofore paymaster general, became secretary of state for dominian affairs, succeeding Viscount Caldecote.

Viscount Caldecote—Lord chief justice, replacing Lord Hewart whose resignation is to be effective Oct. 12 and who is to be made a viscount.

Capt. Oliver Lyttleton—President of the board of trade, succeeding Sir Andrew Duncan.

Sir John Reith — Minister of works and public buildings, a new cabinet post. He also was elevated to the peerage as a baron.

Lieut. Col. J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon—Minister of transport, succeeding Sir John Reith.

Viscount Cranborne, Captain Lyttleton and Lieut. Col. Moore-Brabazon were named to the king's privy council.

Sir John Anderson, in succeeding Chamberlain, was moved after widespread press criticism of his air raid shelter policy.

Laborite Morrison, who replaces Sir John, has a reputation as a "livewire" and man of the people.

Another move apparently aimed at mollifying the public was the creation of the extra place in the war cabinet for dynamic Labor Minister Bevin, whose star British say definitely seems on the rise. Many observers already are calling him "England's next prime minister."

Resignation of Chamberlain came as no surprise, since he underwent a major operation in July. He still is in need of rest, his friends report, and has been unable to get it in bomb-battered London.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1940.

Propaganda is always what some other fellow is trying to put over.

Present-day opportunities are as great as ever for young fellows who can find jobs at which they enjoy working more than eight hours a day.

Persistence with which "Country Squire In the White House" tops the list of non-fiction best sellers indicates that some people must be buying the book instead of borrowing it.

Small Businesses Hampered

ONE of the most serious phases of mounting taxes to meet steadily increasing costs of government is the difficulty of establishing the new small businesses which formerly played an important part in opening investment opportunities and providing employment for large numbers of people.

In a recent address Alfred P. Sloane, jr., chairman of the board of General Motors Corporation, expressed grave concern for the future of free enterprise, especially for small business ventures.

Reminding his audience that "American enterprise is largely one of small units," Mr. Sloane said:

"About two hundred thousand new businesses are started each year with an average of seven employes. High taxes on business and personal incomes are constantly increasing the difficulty of making savings. In looking back over the years to the beginning of many of the enterprises now a part of General Motors, it is clear that in those early days their lives were in frequent jeopardy due to lack of adequate capital. And yet, while those enterprises were then employing relatively few workers, now they are employing tens of thousands directly, and indirectly hundreds of thousands more.

"Today the mortality of such struggling enterprises must necessarily be higher—yet they are vitally needed, not only because of themselves but because they are frequently the beginnings of greater things."

Mansfield's own experience with development of small industries into large ones, and successful operation of many small businesses, gives an idea of the importance of encouraging individual initiative as an essential to community and national progress.

Governmental policies which impose excessive taxes on legitimate businesses, inflict political control and hamper production have already gone far toward preventing normal business expansion and consequent reduction of unemployment.

A changed attitude of government toward private business operations which provide millions of jobs for employes would bring a revival of the free enterprise essential to national prosperity.

Expansion of War's Threat

THE BIG WAR spreads, and yet at the same time narrows. In the face of the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo axis, with all its satellite axes, there is nothing for America to do but go along with Britain.

"Britain" means the British Empire, with special application to England which is the heart of it, and to Canada which is our permanent neighbor and virtually a republic harmonizing with our own.

Included, and only a little less vital to our future, are other British dominions, especially Australia and New Zealand, now threatened by Japanese expansion in the southern Pacific and Indian oceans.

Little has been said lately about our rich Far-Eastern islands, the Philippines, but a great deal of thinking has been done on this subject. There is no more talk of the established plan for independence in 1948. It is recognized on both sides that casting them loose in the world as its stands today would be like tossing children to wild beasts.

By tacit consent the United States and the Philippines go along together, for the sake of both parties and the vital interests bound up with the islands and their neighbors—particularly the Dutch Netherlands and adjoining British possessions, including the great British naval base at Singapore.

Winning Team Deserves Support

ANOTHER of Mansfield's first season of night football games is scheduled for tomorrow at Stadium Field, with New Philadelphia opposing M. H. S.

This will be the fourth consecutive Friday for night football, after which there will be a two-weeks intermission, with Massillon coming here Friday, Oct. 25, for the final home game of the season.

While attendance at the night games already played here (all three of which were won by Mansfield) may be regarded as "fair," patronage has not been up to the point anticipated on the basis of interest heretofore expressed in having the change made from Saturday afternoon to Friday night games so as to accommodate many fans who were unable to get away from work in the afternoon.

A large investment has been made in the fine lighting equipment installed for night games and all patrons are apparently much pleased with the excellent illumination which extends over the entire playing field.

All that is now needed is a sufficient increase in patronage to evidence public interest in encouraging a winning football team—and justify the experiment of changing to night games.

Old Trick In New Guise

ANOTHER of those sad stories of misplaced confidence is found in the experience of a Mansfield man who suffered considerable financial loss as a result of trickery.

This man, it appears, had been an invalid for several months and was victimized by a woman who offered a "magic belt" as a cure for his ailment. From there on it is the familiar story of worthless paper being substituted for the money placed in compartments of the "magic belt."

Nothing new about the whole thing—merely pathetic that there are still some people who fall victims of such tricks, and regrettable that punishment of the perpetrators is not more severe and assured.

Constance Bennett may have a middle name—in any event the "Constance" doesn't jibe with the report that she is now making ready to divorce her third husband.

It is getting becoming more confusing to distinguish between President Roosevelt and a candidate of the same name and general appearance.

Wave When You Pass

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE was one gesture by which you could always tell a far Westerner in the old days—they always waved when they passed.

Chances were, the Other Fellow was an utter stranger. Locomotive engineer, snorting through on the evening mail with the whole town down at the "dee-po" to see him hit those rails. Plodding prospector, brown as his own side o' bacon, trudging along beside his slowpoke mule. Smiling Mexican jingling by on his golden "Palaminto"—carved leather sandal, fretted silver bit and spurs. Silk-hatted millionaire, rolling past in his silk fringed buggy, with the matched pair of bays. Old Doc Shafter, bumping along in his buckboard. Didn't matter who they were or what their station, we waved when we passed them by. And they waved back.

'Twasn't that way everywhere in America. I remember one girl bride, from California, who got herself into a fearful "picklement" when she waved to an amazed brakeman on her arrival in Vermont and was darn near court-martialed out of marriage! Meaning me! And I still can't quite imagine what would happen if one broke out into promiscuous waving to the doorman at the Waldorf or St. Regis. But, thank Heaven, the good old custom still endures, west of the "Great Divide."

Raise your car shade at 5.00 a. m. in the Sunset Limited and there's the proof. Even if you couldn't see the dim earth stretching endlessly like a flat, pink pearl even if there wasn't any rampart of sawtoothed peaks, stretching purple as thunder, against the dawn's quickening glow, you'd know you were in the West. The real West. For there, riding out of the enormous solitude, comes a grinning, sun-bronzed cowboy, waving his sombrero to the streak of a vanishing train and the strangers who ride inside.

It was more than a gesture in the old days. And it's more than a gesture now. It was a high-sign to adventure, a salute to courage, a comfort to enduring loneliness and risk. And God only knows how much you needed that salute when the nearest neighbor to your ranch lived 100 miles away!

You didn't punch a button, or stage a sitdown strike and have life handed to you back in the frontier 60's, 70's and 80's. You went out and took what was coming on your individual chin. But, though you maybe looked and talked as tough as a side-winder, your knees were weak beneath you for the cheer of a laugh and the sight of a face and a hand-clasp that meant someone was betting you'd make good.

Strangers? We were all strangers then. Each man waging his own little battle all alone. And, come to think of it, times haven't changed much. We're all strangers still, whether we live in Chinese Camp in the Sierra Nevada mining country or on Broadway, N'Yawk. Each of us is still waging his own little battle alone, no matter how many others are milling around. And till the earth rolls up and the stars all fade, we'll still be hungry for cheer and friendliness—and faith.

SO WAVE, PARTNER, WHEN YOU PASS 'EM BY!

Not always, though. Unless you're sure of your scenery—and the corner cop. But wipe that abstract expression off your map.

Stop looking as if you didn't give a doggone whether you ever saw another human again. You're lyin'—and you know you're lyin'. Inside, beneath that swanky new fall suit, you're as lonely and troubled as any old sour-dough camping alone on the trail.

Then show it! Let a little of your common warmth and your common hunger show through. Let the poor, bewildered human who passes you feel that there goes a friend, someone who cares and understands, someone who believes . . . For the sake of the desert that's around us all and the hunger that's in us all—

WAVE WHEN YOU PASS 'EM BY!

Timely Editorial

Would Leave No Employers.

In his address at Seattle a few days ago, one of the most effective of his campaign to date, Wendell Willkie included one paragraph which has been widely quoted throughout the country. It illustrates well his facility in boiling down an issue to fundamental, understandable terms. He said:

"We can lick the employer if we want to. We can beat him down, we can frighten him, we can eliminate him. But if we do that, and that is what the New Deal is doing, you won't have any jobs. The only employer left under these circumstances would be the state (that is, the government)."

This charge strikes at the heart of the policy which has been the primary cause of the New Deal's tragic domestic failure, a failure which has left the country still in depression, with more unemployed than in 1936, deeply mired in debt and without the internal strength speedily and effectively to build up our national defenses.—Columbus Dispatch.

Health And Diet

Few Diseases From Vitamin Deficiency.

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE subject of the vitamins was a natural to capture the imagination of the public. The name itself belongs to the jazz age—vitamins! That means vitality, pep, energy—put more of them in the food and you get more oomph. Then there is the fear instilled that you don't get enough of these vitamins in your diet and so the result is everybody wants them in concentrated form.

I have recently reviewed all the latest work done on the vitamins and should like to abstract it briefly in the articles of the next two weeks. These articles will answer the innumerable requests in my mail for information on the vitamins.

I want to take up first the question of how an average person gets enough vitamins. I quote as my text a letter I have just received from a manufacturer: "The old contention that an average American diet was defense enough against vitamin deficiencies has by now been pretty well riddled. Modern foods as we eat them do not deliver the vitamin values they dere supposed to."

Ballyhoo.

I certainly do not agree with this statement and in fact am of the opinion that the whole subject of vitamins has been used to frighten and propagandize the public into believing that they need more vitamins than they are getting in their diet, and they bewilderedly search about for some way to overcome this difficulty.

As a matter of fact, the human diseases due to vitamin deficiency are very rare and infrequently seen even in large clinics. The clear cut diseases due to such deficiency — beri-beri, polyneuritis, pellagra, night-blindness, scurvy, etc., obtrude themselves on a physician's attention only now and again. It is true that rickets would be a common disease if special care—the use of cod liver oil—were not taken in childhood to prevent it. But most vitamin deficiencies are manufactured in the publicity department of drug and food manufacturers. In a large clinic a thousand consecutive patients were examined carefully with this in mind and not a single instance of vitamin deficency was found.

We now have exact chemical methods of identifying most of the vitamins as well as standards of measuring them. In a survey of American dietaries and using these methods to assess the vitamin content, the following was found:

Strawberries and Cream.

The requirements of Vitamin A are 3000 units a day; an American dietary for a family spending $4 a head a week for food contains 5000 units a day. "There is no practical danger of Vitamin B shortage except where an unduly large number of calories are taken in the form of artificially refined foods." (Quoted from Sherman, leading American authority.)

"Try as hard as I may," writes Dr. Thurman B. Rice, Health Commissioner of Indiana, "I can't think of a diet that has more vitamins in it than strawberries and cream."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Willkie to Attack New Deal's Administration of Labor Laws

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One reason President Roosevelt and his naval advisers are not greatly perturbed about Japan's signing a formal alliance with Hitler and Mussolini is a confidential survey U. S. naval experts have made of the Japanese navy.

This reveals that Japanese warships only have on hand enough oil for about two and one-half months of warfare.

Japan gets its oil chiefly from California and the Dutch East Indies, having almost no supplies of its own. That, of course, is one reason she covets the Dutch East Indies. However, naval surveys also show that the capture of these islands will not be as easy as might be expected.

For the Dutch islands of Java and Sumatra have been preparing for the threat of Japanese invasion for two years. About 20 Dutch submarines are stationed in these waters, plus about 300 bombing planes, many of them purchased in the United States. Finally, the islands are well fortified with carefully concealed big guns.

Result is that military experts believe the Dutch could hold out against Japanese naval invaders for about four months. And during this time, Japan's oil supply, if embargoed by the United States, might become exhausted.

This may be one reason why the Japanese have made haste slowly in their contemplated plans for invasion of the Dutch East Indies. They did not want to move until they were sure first that Britain was in a desperate position in its fight with Hitler; and second, that the United States was worried about Europe and did not want to get its fleet preoccupied in the Pacific.

Fishing Sam Rayburn.

PET hobby of Sam Rayburn is fishing. And when he was elevated to speaker of the house of representatives, a friend presented him with a handsome rod and reel.

Elated as a schoolboy with a new bicycle, Sam couldn't wait to try out the gift at a favorite angling spot in Chesapeake Bay. But his joy was short-lived. Hardly had he cast when a big bluefish snapped at the bait. In his anxiety to make the catch, Sam dropped the tackle overboard.

Ordinarily, Speaker Rayburn is an even-tempered man. He rarely blows up, but this was an exception. For the next five minutes the ozone sizzled as Sam, in unvarnished Texicana, deplored his ill-fortune. He was still grumbling about it the next day when he related his experience to colleagues.

Sam figured that was the end of the matter, but he was wrong. A few hours after the story got around, messengers from Washington sporting goods stores began arriving at his office, each bearing new fishing equipment. Before the day was over, seven rods and reels were received from sympathetic friends.

The last was brought in person by Representative Jack Cochran of Missouri. Rayburn wasn't in, so Cochran, grinning, left this message: "Tell Sam this is a non-sinkable rod."

Note—Rayburn is also crazy about cows, and in writing home inquires about each member of his prize herd.

Perkins Spanking.

SECRETARY Frances Perkins, long under fire in inner administration quarters, will be the target of some hot blasts by Wendell Willkie in his Pittsburgh speech tonight.

This will be the GOP nominee's major labor address, and it will be aimed chiefly at organized workers in the big industrial centers, with whom admittedly he is weak. Willkie considers the talk so important that he took more time and care preparing it than his acceptance speech.

Willkie strongly resents the recent attacks on his labor record as head of Commonwealth and Southern, particularly the scathing article in the "New Republic." His first impulse was to roll up his sleeves and deliver a slashing answer. But campaign advisers warned against it, urging that the best defense was a sizzling attack on the administration.

Willkie accepted their judgment and will devote only a small part of his speech to his own labor record. Its main burden will be a caustic grilling of the New Deal's administration of its own labor laws.

He will charge that labor hasn't been given an adequate voice in agencies in which it is vitally interested. That is where Miss Perkins comes in. She may not be mentioned by name, for fear of offending the women's vote, but Willkie will leave no doubt whom he means. He will assert that her labor department is manned by "misfits" and others unacceptable to either the AFL or CIO.

Also, unless the text of the speech is changed, Willkie will promise that if elected he will appoint someone from the "ranks of labor" as secretary of labor, and give labor greater representation in other branches of the government, such as the Social Security Board, Wage-Hour Division, etc. He will charge that these agencies are being run by college professors and theorists who don't understand labor's problems.

Note—One of the main collaborators on Willkie's speech was Lewis G. Hines, AFL labor commissioner of Pennsylvania and one of the campaign managers of Governor Arthur James. Hines' appointment as assistant to AFL carpenter boss "Big Bill" Hutcheson, chairman of the GOP labor campaign committee, soon will be announced.

Local Air Bases.

THE Army Air Corps isn't saying anything publicly, but it is making a quiet survey of all airports in the country for the purpose of locating new bases and training centers.

Objective behind the plan is to secure the greatest possible dispersion of air forces necessary for defense. Four cities already have been selected: New Orleans, West Palm Beach, Fla., Tallahassee, Fla., and Augusta, Ga.

The number of new bases planned is a secret, but they will cover the entire country with a network of air defenses. The Air Corps now leases fueling accommodations at certain commercial airports, but these facilities will be greatly expanded under the new program.

Also under consideration is the establishment of anti-aircraft defenses in strategic sections of the country. Home Guard organizations, to be set up under the bill pending in congress, will play an important part in these plans. Many of the Home Guards, composed of older men, will be anti-aircraft units.

Mail Bag.

D. T., Boston—There were several reasons why Father Coughlin announced he would not go back on the air this fall. One was the refusal of all but a few small stations to sell him time; another was the code of the National Broadcasters association barring harangues of his kind; and a third was the disapproval of his church, which last February ordered him to confine himself to purely religious subjects.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

SAN JUAN, P. R.—Young Puerto Rican bloods squiring their girls to the movies this week have a treat in store. . . . They're seeing "Lo Que El Viento Se Llevo," which in the United States means "Gone With the Wind." . . . I can't get over the way the big liners dock themselves in the San Juan harbor. . . . The treacherous currents and cross-tides of New York would be suicidal without a bevy of low-lying foghorn-voiced tugs. . . . Ships here dock in the exact spot where the old Spanish galleons formerly came to rest under the protection of El Morro's guns.

That stately old gentleman in the baggy linen and the panama hat strolling leisurely across Condado drive is don Manuel Gonzales, reputed one of the wealthiest men on the Island. They say he owns at least a quarter of the real estate here. He first came to Puerto Rico on a cattle boat, gaining his start by selling beef during the American occupation in 1898.

THOSE song writers who pine for the swallows of Capistrano should figure out a tune to fit the crabs on Mona Island, 40 miles off the west coast of Puerto Rico. Every year, without fail, on July 29 they come out of their caves and waddle down to the beach. From dawn until dusk they amble about exchanging their old shells for new ones. Then they waddle back. This phenomenon of nature occurs as regularly as Christmas. No one is able to explain why.

All the ancient records of the Spanish governors, kept in dusty archives since the early 16th century, are being translated into English by the W. P. A. This should be a bonanza for historians and authors of historical novels.

Here's an odd thing about crime in Puerto Rico. Convictions on counts of first degree murder are almost unknown. Manslaughter, sure, but almost nobody can remember when the death penalty was imposed for murder. Explanation: Puerto Ricans are emotionally very excitable. If they kill you, they do it in sudden anger. There is very seldom any evidence of premeditation.

SOMETHING to make note of is the holiday excitement at the docks each Monday when the incoming liners from New York arrive. Puerto Ricans greeting their loved ones are a spectacle not easily forgotten. Scenes of farewell on Thursday, when the ships depart, are poignant in the extreme. I have seldom witnessed such mass displays of grief. Fathers literally have to tear mothers from the arms of sons and daughters who are sailing for their education in the United States.

From a souvenir point of view, one of the Island's best buys is the hand-made throw rugs, fashioned from string and old sugar sacks. They sell for a dollar each and come in bright blue, red and white. In the New York stores they retail for $4.95.

Interesting is the story of Virginio Arben, who is freight solicitor for a steamship line in San Juan. . . . During his off moments he sings opera. . . . You can find his recordings under Victor labels.

A Farmer's Diary

Little Pheasants

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT SUNUP this morning, I heard a gentle clucking in the briers of the high bank across the road. I thought at first it was a mother hen that had stolen her nest and hatched a brood. But after listening longer, I was sure the short clucks were from a stranger little mother—one whose wariness will not risk rash companionship.

Stealthily I moved into the shelter of the wet corn rows. I could not see a single movement on the higher ground. But all the time I heard sweet little chirping voices. I got down on my knees out of sight in the frosty grass and weeds, warmed from within by hope of seeing my little friends and satisfying my avid curiosity.

Cautiously, a drab mottled head was thrust out from the seared dark grass and leaves, with an alert eye cocked in my direction as though she were taking definite observation of me, there among the corn. When I did not move, the eager creatures stepped out and poised in a high open place, looking about with much concern. Then her eye came back to me again. She sensed that all was not what it seemed to be. I sat as still as a stump or stone.

Presently the mother pheasant gave two little chirps, indicating the coast was clear. I saw numerous movements of the green and withered grass and then five little heads and shoulders appeared, almost evenly spaced. More came until I counted ten, less than half-grown pheasants, all poised like their mother, as if to fly across the road.

Once more their mother made some remark and straightened up to look, while every little fellow crouched ready for the take-off. Rapidly, with a heavy whir of wings, the mother flew and lit in front of me. The entire brood followed. The whole family was in the air at one time—the guiding mother eight feet or so ahead.

She settled among the sunflower stalks at the eastern border of the garden. A second more and they were all reunited. The varied shades of brown and flecks of black upon their feathered coats blended perfectly with the border of the newly planted wheat and sod.

Obedience to the parental call was absolute. No questioning, no harsh words — only instinctive compliance with nature's laws of self preservation, and the instinctive knowledge that it was for such as them the sunflowers grew.

THE WORLD IS LIKE THAT + +

By Kathleen Norris

CHAPTER 2

Lilian had impressed her as uninteresting. A plump, pretty little woman whose conversation was all platitudes about lamps, chairs, beauty parlors and icebox cake. From the very beginning Jocelyn had felt a certain vague resentment of Lilian's complacency. "He's mine," Lilian had seemed to say with every dull little phrase and possessive little gesture. "Admire him as much as you like; enjoy his friendship to the limit; suffer any inconvenience your own feelings may cause you. But he's mine. Mine to pet and feed and scold and know all about; how many shirts he has and how he likes his eggs fried and what he says when he loses his temper and what he says afterward when he's sorry."

Later that attitude was to cause Jocelyn acute suffering. Almost at once she and Kent begun to fall in love with each other. At first it had seemed to her a frightening thing and a regrettable thing, but she had found the fright intoxicating and the regret in itself something enormously to enjoy. These new thrilling feelings had absorbed her; a married man had completely lost his head about her, and she loved him, too. They had met for countless tea hours and lunches and long walks to discuss how best they could be true to each other and to Lilian.

Sometimes she had gone home with him to have supper with Lilian, and he and she had sat in that enchanted globe of self-absorption that is new love; both being wonderful to Lilian, both more determined than ever not to fail her, but each feeling the dramatic glitter of the situation like something lighted by a glory not of this world. To answer Lilian politely, to turn her starry eyes from Kent's face to Lilian's, to say little, or nothing, while cosmic thunders were ringing in the room—this had given Jocelyn the most acute and trembling joy she ever had known. Lilian had suspected nothing for a long time.

But presently both Kent and Jocelyn had known that she did suspect, and it was then that somehow the bloom and glory of the whole thing had begun to fade. They talked divorce, but there was no more reason for Kent to divorce Lilian than there had been for him to marry her in the first place. If she had been a big, self-reliant woman, or an indifferent housekeeper, or extravagant, or unfaithful, or even discontented, it might have been managed. But Lilian was as complacently satisfied as a good mother: her boy's chair and his hot supper and his newspaper, their little jokes, their pleasures over a well-handled budget and a growing bank account were all so many good stout props under Lilian. Any other woman get her Kent? Why, before he'd been gone two days he'd come running back to her for his clean socks and his mail and his headache tablets and his milk-toast dinner after a party! He depended on her for everything; he was the biggest baby . . . !

Jocelyn knew exactly what Lilian was thinking about the whole thing; what she would say when women friends asked her about it. And she writhed with shame and hatred.

For the first few hours after Kent's call in the office it all seemed too bad to be true, and Jocelyn felt merely dazed and dull. She went through the usual evening routine automatically; conscious that agony was ahead, but neither feeling it nor fearing it yet. She sat through dinner; went upstairs afterward; moved about her room quietly and steadily, making everything right for the night.

It was a pleasant square room on a little hallway of three rooms; the other two were also occupied by single women, and the three had a bath to themselves, which was very pleasant, and also an extra large closet in the hallway. There was also a big closet in Jocelyn's room, and she had a small balcony outside her window; not practicable, but somehow a nice thing to have, and she had a slice of view. The bay, Alcatraz, the Berkeley hills, the bridge were all contained in the narrow strip, and she never tired of watching the changes that come with the changing hours upon them: light and darkness, day and night, fog and sunshine.

The bed wore a tufted cotton cover of red and white by day; Jocelyn folded it carefully and put it on a closet shelf. There was an extra pillow on the closet shelf; she brought it out. She changed her clothes; put on walking shoes; took up a book. She would walk to the big library on Larkin street. It was just eight o'clock.

Just eight o'clock. The evening was young. She must not think. She looked in drugstore windows as she walked along, saw women making late purchases at the fruit stalls, saw children, bright-eyed and talkative, up much too late. She thought she would ask the librarian for another detective story; she and the librarian had laughed more than once as they had agreed that in certain moods nothing was so soothing and distracting as a good murder story.

A candy-store window was full of little metal turkeys strutting about. Blue-black turkeys, with tiny red beaks and white wattles. "Turkeys," Jocelyn said aloud, stopping at the window. "I wonder how long it is since I've seen a live turkey.

"Now let me see," she said, walking along. "I've never lived in the country, so I've not seen them there. Mother and I always were in city boardinghouses — except that divine time when we had the apartment just before she got arthritis. . . .

"He came into the office—the moment I saw him I knew, of course—I knew—the look on his face. . . .

She was in the library; she had changed her book, talked to Miss Pruett; she was on her way home again. There was nothing about which she could think; nothing for which to live; everywhere her mind and spirit turned, they met despair.

Back in her room, and undressed, in her heart she was now writing him passionate letters. One after another; one after another. "My dear Kent—Kent, my dear—Kent, it can't end this way—there's friendship, and that's all I ask. Friendship can't hurt anyone. We said we would keep it friendship because then it could always go on, and I need it. My pride's crushed, dear, I can't pretend. I need you in my life."

She brooded, mentally tossing aside these images as she had mentally evoked them.

It must be shorter. "By the way, Kent, I want to see you before you go." Or, "Save me a lunch date next week, Kent." Businesslike. She wouldn't cry or reproach or be feminine and annoying. There were eleven days before Kent would leave for Portland; if he managed a luncheon or tea date at once she would have time to make another engagement with him. If that luncheon or tea went well, it would be simple to say, "If you're free tonight, come round my way about eight and we'll walk."

There had been a time when he had been tireless, ingenious, in arranging for these meetings; there had been a time when they had tucked them in everywhere. Once she had begged off; she had said that she was facing a hard session with a dentist. And he had met her outside Dr. Thorne's office with a little ice pack ready, and had taken her to a waiting taxi, tenderly reassuring as to the effect on the swollen face and cut mouth; and when she had reached her room there had been roses there, and a new book, and new puzzles, and someone had been given instructions that Miss Britton would have only tea and ice cream for supper, and was to stay in bed.

Oh, memories of exquisite protectiveness and concern! How they burned and tortured now! But she must not think of them now. She must think straight ahead: she must hold firm to what was left. A luncheon with Kent, and afterward perhaps a long walk and tea somewhere. If Lilian chanced to have a lunch engagement for Saturday—she would not, though! Leave it to Lilian to went Kent that day! But if by some miracle she did have an engagement, then Kent and Jocelyn might walk across the bridge to Sausalito, scramble up hills and gasp with joy at wide bay views, come back by bus to lunch on fried oysters and hot French bread.

Or better, they could go to Keble's place in Piedmont, go through it picking up Ken't possessions; he had said he wanted them when he went away. They would build a big fire to warm the little-used place; they might take chops and buns and a can of tomato soup for sauce. Jocelyn's hands would get grimy from handling books and dusty boxes; there would be hot water in the stark little bathroom with its out-of-door shower and "board-and-bat" walls, and she would wash herself there, tossing her hair back from a soapy fresh face, calling out to Kent, invisible and hammering somewhere, that she was just about done. Then they would have a late lunch, and fall into long talk by the fire. And there would be afternoon shadows on the winter hills and a murmuring fire and perhaps pine branches occasionally sweeping the low shingles of the roof.

Covington Keble was a painter who lived for three or four years at a time in his tiny isolated cabin up in the hills, and then, having sold a picture, or having saved enough money from his small income, left for an indefinite visit to the lessknown towns and roadways of the Old World. He took his bicycle and his dog along, and such luggage as would fit in the bicycle basket; he had various belongings in storage in Paris, and from that base he shifted about, now copying a Tiepolo in Venice, now carrying a sausage sandwich in his pocket so that he might sit uninterrupted for an entire day before a Vermeer in an Amsterdam gallery.

When he was away his friends might use his studio as their own: there was no time when they were not welcome there. Kent was numbered in this select little company—Jocelyn had met him through Kent—and old Keble had capitulated at once to Jocelyn's rare beauty and quiet appreciation. She loved him, and she knew that he loved her. Lilian he tolerated only when there was no escape; Kent was to him an especially beloved son, and he would not hurt Kent's wife or Kent through his wife.

Jocelyn connected some of her happiest memories with the cabin; now Kent had said that he must go over there before he went away. Who would go with him? Not Lilian. She was going to visit her mother for a few days in Portland before Kent followed her to the new home up there. If Covington was here, how heavenly for Jocelyn to join them at the cabin, to steal just that one delicious evening from the bleak empty months to come! It would tie her loss and Covington's together; it would mean she had company in misery. But Covington was in Switzerland, painting blue snow, "which really has a great deal of pink and green in it, too," he had written Kent.

Kent might go over alone, of course. Or he might ask the Booths. If he asked the Booths, it would be perfect, for Una was a darling and Red loved to cook. Jocelyn determined that when she and Kent had lunch together she would find out exactly what was his plan. If he had no definite plan, then why not say lightly: "By the way, if you're going over to Covery's, want Una and Red and me along?. Let's have a final jamboree."

No harm in that. If he said, "A few fellows are going with me," that would end it. Her heart sank at the thought of the finality of that ending, for after that he was going away. But between now and the utter inevitable blankness of the future there must be one more meeting.

The days went by, and he did not telephone or send her any word. Early in the week came a summons from her aunt in Sausalito; Jocelyn was wanted for Saturday night and Sunday lunch; if she couldn't make both, Sunday lunch was the important time. Probably, Jocelyn thought, studying the telephone message apathetically, another of the girls was going to announce her engagement. Aunt Nell had six daughters whose ages ranged between 24 and 15, and one son, Richie, who was 11. Two of the girls had already married; Jane was Charles Rossiter's wife; Jossy was Mrs. Peter Leicester Smith. Madeleine, called Tots in the family circle, had been going with Rusty Livermore for some years, and little Sissy, who was only 18, had a beau, too—one Ned Whitehouse. Bam and Peaches, christened Sarah Alice and Adelaide, respectively, were supposedly too young for love affairs, but one never could tell with the Partridges.

Jocelyn loved them all; her aunt was the nearest thing to a mother that she had now, and Mrs. Partridge's own enormous family did not prevent her feeling a keen affectionate interest in her brother's lonely daughter. She loved to have Jocelyn with her, and Jocelyn usually loved to go to Maple Den, and the girls named their home in a mood of high hilarious irony years earlier. There were no maples on the place, and the rambling homely house was like nothing so little as a den, but the name clung, and Peaches and Bam had added a last touch of Victorian reality to it by planting the words in sturdy marigolds and the brushier border flowers across the front lawn. They loved to think of the casual opinion of passers-by as their eyes fell upon this elegant decoration. Jocelyn felt that the Partridges carried their sense of humor too far in this as in other instances, but the family, once having accepted a joke, never grew tired of it.

This week-end she dared not leave town, even at the risk of offending her aunt. Kent might telephone; indeed Kent unquestionably would telephone. If he did not, of course, she could telephone him. Why not? Friends telephoned each other. Even if Lillian came to the telephone; what of it? One could say "Lilian, I hear you're going away? Too bad! What's the plot today?" day?"

Lillian would say, "Nothing; why don't you come over for supper and we'll do something!" Or would she? Jocelyn had been aware that Lilian had not been very spontaneous in her messages of late months. Oh well, suppose she was not! That did not matter as long as Jocelyn had a chance to pull her most becoming hat down on her gold hair, button her winter coat effectively up to her ears, plunge her shabby gloves out of sight in her pockets, and walk in on the Dunhams gaily and confidently.

"Hello, people! I'm so glad to find you at home! I was afraid you'd go away without saying good-by!"

Friday came with no message. The hours went by; it was afternoon; it was night. No word. The telephone rang at Mrs. Buck's; not for Miss Britton. "I'm expecting a message," she said, loitering in the clean, pleasant, dull hallways.

Friday night. Saturday morning. Sissy Partridge telephoned—"for Mother"—to remind Jocelyn that they wanted her. Jocelyn, in her first keen disappointment, felt that she could have slapped her innocent cousin. Kent, she thought frantically, might be trying to get her on the telephone this minute.

"Tots specially wants you to come, Jocelyn," Sissy said. "I'm not supposed to say why." Sissy's tone was bubbling with excitement and happiness, and Jocelyn could hear Bam and Peaches giggling in the background somewhere.

"Oh, darling, I'm so sorry! But I have an engagement I can't get out of."

Yelling at the other end of the line, of course. They were always yelling in the Partridge house.

"Mother says then come for sup-p-per!" finally screamed Sissy.

"I surely will, if I can." Jocelyn hung up the receiver.

Now she had to do something about it. Now she must definitely find out what Kent's plans were. This was Saturday, at ten minutes to ten. By Monday he would be gone.

CITY FREE OF FATAL MISHAPS

Police Report For September Shows Mansfield Escaping Traffic Accident Deaths.

Regular monthly report of the city police department being prepared today showed that Mansfield escaped all fatalities by accident during the month of September.

Eighty-one accidents were reported to the department, however, with 10 of the persons involved suffering injuries.

City police made eight arrests for speeding, three for careless and reckless driving, and one each for unsafe driving and operating a motor vehicle without a licensed operator.

There were 11 arrests for breaking and entering and one for petit larceny. In all, 112 arrests were made during the month. Total fines and costs assessed in municipal court as a result of police arrests were $441.20.

Four hundred seventy five traffic tickets were issued and $495.25 was collected on them.

THREE DEATHS

Cat's Nine Lives Bobbed to Fit Bobcat Span.

SUSANVILLE, Cal.—(INS)—Every once in a while Deputy Sheriff C. McCutcheon of Susanville takes a quick glance at the bob cat skin hanging outside his door.

McCutcheon said he "killed" the same bobcat three times and is not certain the hide will come to life and start clawing him again.

The deputy sheriff first ran over the cat with his car. To make sure it was dead, he battered it over the head with a blackjack. He then placed the "carcass" in the trunk of his car.

On the following day when he opened the trunk, the cat leaped out, hissing and clawing. McCutcheon shot the bobcat, "killing" it for the third time. He hopes it stays that way, too.

ELDERLY FOSSIL.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa. —(U.P.)— An eight-inch fossilized reptile embedded in red shale was unearthed here in a road excavation. Smithsonian Institution is interested in the ancient specimen considered to be 3,500,000 years old and of the Palezoid period.

Hitler, Mussolini Plan Important War Conference

HINT RUSSIAN RELATIONS TO BE DISCUSSED

Report Duce Already Left Rome For Brenner Pass to Meet Fuehrer.

(By United Press)

ROME—Sensational reports of a new Axis war move to be discussed by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini at Brenner Pass circulated today without confirmation or denial in official Fascist quarters.

One report was that Mussolini already had left Rome for a conference with Hitler at Brenner Pass.

Authorized sources in Berlin said that rumors of a Hitler-Mussolini meeting were current there but that thus far there was no official confirmation.)

The reported Hitler-Mussolini conference was linked here with these developments:

1— Ramon Serrano Suner, Spain's special envoy, suddenly postponed his departure from Rome for at least 48 hours.

2— Reports circulated in Rome that the conference concerned the fifth clause of the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo military alliance which deals with relations between the contracting powers and Russia.

3— (Greece reported sudden reinforcement of Italian forces on her Albanian border and was rushing defense preparations in event of an Italian move.)

Reports circulated here that Russia's premier and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov might be a participant at the Brenner Pass discussions, but no authority was cited for this rumor.

(Rumors of this nature have emanated repeatedly from Axis quarters but thus far invariably have failed of realization.)

In connection with the Russian angle of the Hitler-Mussolini meeting attention was drawn to the article in yesterday's Giornale D'Italia by Virginio Gayda, the newspaper editor often used by Mussolini to place his views before the Italian public.

The burden of Gayda's article was that Russia was united with the Axis in the fight against economic imperialism and plutocracy and emphasized that there was no bar so far as Italy was concerned, to more intimate collaboration with the Soviet state.

DISEASES DROP

Whooping Cough on Decrease Report Shows.

With whooping cough on the wane in Richland county, communicable diseases in Mansfield during September showed a marked decrease, the board of health was told at a meeting yesterday.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said only 61 cases of contagious diseases were reported to health authorities last month as compared to 84 reported in August.

Largest decrease was shown in whooping cough, a total of 40 cases reported in the city last month as against 55 the month previous.

Only one case of scarlet fever was reported as compared to 11 in August. There was also 13 cases of venereal disease, five tuberculosis, and one each of chickenpox and pneumonia.

Deaths in the city increased from 25 in August to 37 last month to boost the total to 351 since Jan. 1.

SUGGEST HOARE LEAVE RUMANIA

Bucharest Government Demands Recall of Ambassador.

BUDAPEST — (INS) — A blunt suggestion to British Minister Sir Reginald Hoare that he request his own recall because his presence "spoils British-Rumanian relations" was made by Rumanian Foreign Secretary Sturza, according to dispatches received today from Bucharest.

Replying to Hoare's protest against the arrest of a half dozen English subjects, Sturza charged that Hoare himself was responsible for the alleged attempts of British engineers to sabotage the Rumanian oil industry, and concluded with the suggestion that the British envoy voluntarily request his own recall.

PORK'S DOWN

Farmer Finds 200-Pound Hog On Ledge Deep in Well.

FREDERICK, Md. —(AP)— The pump quit on C. Lease Bussard's farm, and Bussard climbed into the well to make repairs. Thirty feet down on a ledge he found the trouble—noisy, mad and hungry.

A 200-pound hog had crashed through the well flooring, disabling the pump. Farmhands hauled the hog out in a sling.

CRUDE BOMB EXPLODES

BUILD 3 HOMES

Mansfielders Get Permits to Erect New Residences.

October building got off to an early start today with the issuance at City Hall of permits for the construction of three new homes.

They went to Clarence Jolley, 20 South Foster street, who will build a $6,000 residence at 266 Saxton road; C. J. Burkhardt, contractor, who will construct a $4,900 home at 234 Rhein avenue, and to M. L. Schmid, 111 Raleigh avenue, for construction of a $4,700 home at 53 East Raleigh avenue.

C. OF C. GETS NEW MEMBERS

41 Enrolled as Drive Reaches Third Day; Total of 502 Reported Today.

Enlistment of 41 new members was reported today as the 28th annual membership drive of the Chamber of Commerce swung into the third day.

Robert Remy, chairman of the membership committee, said that 461 of last year members had renewed their standing, boosting the campaign total to 502 members.

The organization is seeking to enlist 75 new members in an effort to push the 1941 membership past the 700 mark. Last year more than 650 members were enrolled.

Thirty two-man teams, each with a quota of five new members, are heading the campaign drive under the leadership of Paul M. Eliot, honorary chairman, and John B. Conard, co-chairman.

At the first report meeting yesterday the workers were addressed by George W. Stephens and Atty. C. H. Henkel, both past presidents.

Final report meeting is scheduled tomorrow noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, John G. Routzon, secretary-manager said. He expressed confidence that the drive would close "successfully" tomorrow evening.

GIVES RULING

Examiner Recommends Ohio Fuel Gas Reinstate Employe.

In a report to the regional National Labor Relations board office at Cleveland today, Henry G. Kent, an examiner, recommended that the Ohio Fuel Gas company reinstate Alva A. Crunkilton, a dismissed employe, at Pavonia, and "cease and desist" from alleged unfair labor practices.

Kent presided at an NLRB hearing involving the Ohio Fuel Gas company in Mansfield last June 3 and 4. The firm was accused of unfair labor practices in a charge filed last May 21 by the United Mine Workers union, a CIO affiliate.

Kent also recommended that Crunkilton be given full back pay from the time he was dismissed, allegedly in violation of the Wagner act. The examiner said he found evidence of "surveillance and anti-union statements" on the part of the gas company.

66 PASS CITIZENSHIP EXAMS, ALL ELIGIBLE TO CAST VOTES

Mansfield and Richland county had 66 new citizens today who can cast their first vote in the Nov. 5 election.

The 66, all foreign-born qualified for citizenship papers at naturalization hearings yesterday before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston. They comprise the largest citizenship class in the history of the county. Only four of a class of 70 failed to pass.

Natives of a score of nations in Europe and Asia, some of them now blotted out by Hitler, the men and women showed sufficient knowledge of the American way of life to satisfy Judge Huston who granted them citizenship. Each applicant had to produce two witnesses to attest to his reputation in the community.

Norman Henry, county naturalization clerk, said they would receive their papers within a few days at the county clerk's office in the courthouse. Because of the size of the class, no public reception for the group has been planned.

Immediately after qualifying for citizenship yesterday, most of the group went to the county board of elections and registered so they can vote in November.

Those who qualified for citizenship were:

Shelby Couple Exchange Vows In Kentucky Ceremony.

SHELBY — Announcement has been made here of the wedding of Miss Martha Sonnanstine of near Shelby to Mr. Loren F. Hipsher of Shelby, which took place at Visalia, Ky., Sept. 30.

The marriage was performed at the Visalia Methodist church with Rev. Kidwell officiating.

Upon return from a short wedding trip through Kentucky and southern Ohio, the couple will make their home near Shelby with the bridegroom's father, W. Dale Hipsher.

The former Miss Sonnanstine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sonnanstine, southwest of Shelby. She has been employed at Shelby Spring Hinge company. Mr. Hipsher is employed by the Standard Oil company in Mansfield.

BENEFIT BRIDGE

CRESTLINE—Twelve tables of cards were in play for the public benefit sponsored by the auxiliary to the Eagles Monday evening. Proceeds received was to be used toward the purchase of new uniforms for the degree team.

Mrs. Russell Fisher, president of the auxiliary, was general chairman and presented prizes as follows: bridge, Mrs. Mary Ricker, Galion; five hundred, Mrs. Jenkins; pinochle, Mrs. Anna Barber, and euchre, Mrs. Martin Burkhart. A. P. Sonner won the cake and Jerry Trainor the door prize.

CHILD, 4, HURT

GALION — Four-year-old Jean Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evans of Grant street, is in Good Samaritan hospital today suffering with a fractured right thigh.

Delighted to see her father when he was returning home Wednesday evening, she jumped on the running board of his car and accidentally fell beneath the automobile, the wheels of the machine passing over her body and fracturing her thigh.

LIEUTENANT TO RETIRE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, a native of Columbus, O., will retire Jan. 30 at the age of 64 from command of the second army and sixth corps area at Chicago, the war department announced.

SITE OF RAVENNA AMMUNITION PLANT SWIRLS WITH ACTIVITY

RAVENNA—(U.P.)—The site of the government's new ammunition loading plant, formerly a quiet Portage county countryside, today became a swirling mass of construction workers, job hunters and landless farmers as the army hastened work on this cog in the national defense machinery.

Roads were so choked with traffic that the company assigned the job of building the $14,200,000 plant announced that henceforth only cars bearing official passes would be allowed on the grounds.

Twenty-one thousand acres of land near the village of Windham, once productive farm land, have been bought up for the site of the arsenal.

Many of the farmers who had vacated their property came back for a last look at their old fields. They stared in amazement, too, at cars bearing license plates from all over the country, and many of them carrying whole families whose men were seeking jobs.

The Hunkin-Conkey construction company, which must build the plant, already has laid foundations for a field house, hospital, boiler house, assembly hall, mess hall, two dormitories and three business offices. Locations of other buildings have been staked out, but officials declined to explain for what purpose they would be used.

To most applicants for jobs the company management, which has a "closed shop" agreement with an American Federation of Labor union, had one answer: "See your business agent."

Few, if any workmen were engaged on the spot. Company officials said "thousands" had asked for work and a checker counted 675 in one morning.

Families sat packed in their cars or mothers spread blankets on the ground for the children while the men folks gathered in little groups and discussed their prospects among themselves.

At the headquarters of the Windham volunter fire department a dozen engineers found lodgings that served in lieu of better accommodations. The firemen also gave shelter to a man and his wife who had come by foot from Springfield, Ill., with two old English sheep dogs.

ORGANIZE DRIVE FOR PASSAGE OF ONE-MILL LEVY

Civic Group Representatives Form Committee; JAC OK's Approval of Proposal.

A city-wide committee, whose aim will be to conduct a vigorous campaign for approval of a one-mill operating levy at the Nov. 5 election was being organized today.

Headed by Herbert R. Slough, Mansfield insurance agent, as chairman, the nucleus of the committee will be set up at an early meeting of representatives of civic organizations.

Slough was named last night at an organization meeting of representatives of more than 70 organizations which met in municipal court rooms at City Hall. C. N. Schultz, city councilman was named acting secretary.

The group will have the support of the police and fire departments, airport organizations, and sponsors of playground recreation and parks activities.

The levy was placed on the ballot at the Sept. 3 meeting of city council by unanimous vote.

Funds from the proposed issue are expected to be used for bolstering the fire and police departments, municipal airport, playgrounds and park development.

The levy is for five years and would raise approximately $57,000 annually.

First group to announce formal support of the levy was the Junior Association of Commerce which went on record last night favoring the issue.

The vote was taken after Richard Burnham, chairman of the levy committee, had reported on his group's study of the proposal and after an open forum discussion.

With 57 present at the meeting in the C. of C. rooms, the club launched a drive to obtain at least one member from every retail store in the city. Saturday was set as the deadline.

Lionel Smaltz announced plans for a vote campaign to be conducted by club members during the last week in October. Slogan in the drive will be "Vote as you please, but vote."

Principal speaker was Capt. J. A. Stevenson, director of Mohican state park, who discussed park wild life and explained the serious fire hazard resulting from carelessness of visitors and lack of adequate fire fighting equipment.

PLAN TWO NEW CLASSES AT Y

Groups Formed to Study Bridge And Religious Arts.

Two new classes in Y. W. C. A. service will get under way next week, according to Miss Lucy Wakeland, general secretary.

The first Bible study class, including a correlation of religious arts, will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. Miss Elizabeth McBride will conduct the classes. If there are enough persons interested in an afternoon class, one will be arranged, Miss Wakeland said.

At the same hour on Tuesday night the bridge classes, open to men and women, will get under way, under the direction of E. H. Lockwood, Mansfield bridge expert. Registrations in both classes may be made until Tuesday evening.

BRITISH RAID AFRICAN BASES

Italians Report Two Planes Shot Down In Clash.

ROME — (AP) — The high command reported today that British warplanes had attacked Italian objectives in East Africa, but said two of the raiders had been shot down.

These raids caused "neither casualties nor damage," a brief communique said.

No mention was made of Italian activity.

ASKS FOR VOLUNTEERS

Russell Gimbel, director of the Friendly House, issued a call today for volunteers to aid in the adult English classes at the Friendly house during the fall and winter. The volunteers should be well enough grounded in English grammar to be able to teach it, Gimbel said.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LECHE PLAQUES ON JUNK HEAP

$4,656 Bronze Order Shrinks to $211 Value When It Hits Discard.

BATON ROUGE, La. —(U.P.)— A $4,656 order for bronze plaques which officials of former Gov. Richard W. Leche's administration wanted to place on state-constructed buildings was worth only $211 to the junkman.

The entire consignment of 143 plaques ended up in a remote corner of Louisiana's multi-million dollar state capitol after Leche resigned in June last year. Though the consignment was ordered shortly before, it arrived after the departure for Canada of Dr. James Monroe Smith, resigned president of Louisiana State University, and precipitation of the Louisiana scandals.

Reporters didn't find out for a long time what had become of the markers but later learned the entire shipment of 1,600 pounds of high grade bronze was sold to a stencil works in New Orleans for 13 cents a pound.

Other plaques, some of which bore the likeness of Leche, were torn from every building on the L. S. U. campus at the order of Leche's successor in office, former Gov. Earl K. Long and his board of university supervisors.

This last batch was junked also, and capital sources said the bronze had been melted down into ash-trays and other useful gadgets.

BEES WIN OUT

WILMINGTON, Del. —(NS)— A swarm of bees holds a technical victory over Robert Silvers of Wilmington.

Attempting to prevent the bees from hiving in the rafters outside his house, Silvers used a burning mop on the end of a clothes pole.

The beams caught fire and three fire companies were called out.

CO-EDS SPEND FOR EDUCATION

Expenses Higher Than Men's Survey by Indiana U. Discloses.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind (INS)—The co-ed spends more than the mere male at Indiana University here, a survey has revealed.

The average student last year spent $643.22. The women spent an average of $682.70 and the men $621.07.

The lowest average for any group in the general study was $511.58, the average cost for unorganized freshmen men. The highest, $876.82 was that of junior sorority members.

Organized women spent $210.74 more than unorganized women and in the case of the men, the difference was $293.30.

The greatest difference between the expenditures of men and women on the campus was in the percentage of budget spent for recreation, amusement and clothing.

	Men	Women
Food	$192.65	$184.65
Rent	112.32	117.47
Clothing	74.30	138.12
Recreation and amusement	58.31	19.82

One of every three of the undergraduates earned at least a part of his college expenses. Approximately one of every seven students earned all expenses without any assistance from home, more than half of these being in the group of unorganized men.

RALLY DAY

Special Services Planned at Protestant Churches.

SHELBY—Special Rally Day services are planned at Shelby Protestant churches.

Churches holding special rallies to get their Sunday school and church members together are First Methodist, Church of Christ, Baptist, Evangelical and Reformed, United Brethren, Nazarene and Lutheran.

Besides holding special Rally day services, First Presbyterian church will hold annual homecoming services at its church during the day.

At the 10:15 a. m. service communion will be served by Rev. A. B. Alison, pastor of the church. This program will be followed at 12:30 p. m. by a covered-dish dinner served by members of Amy Allison class. An entertainment program will follow.

Committees appointed for the homecoming program include: Tables, Mrs. Helen Freese; reception, Mrs. Robert Shreffler; flowers, Mrs. C. S. Huber; table decoration, Mrs. W. O. Critchfield; and registration, G. O. Shilling.

FREAK LIZARD HAS TWO HEADS

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—(U.P.)—Found: A creature that didn't know whether it was coming or going.

At least it may be assumed that the lizard killed by Mrs. Alva Pettis, Fairchild, was a victim of that kind of confusion. The creature, according to Mrs. Pettis, was equipped with two heads, one at each end of its four-inch body.

In trying to escape, the lizard reversed its direction without troubling to turn around, Mrs. Pettis noted.

Downs, French Officer Meet

INITIATE EIGHT.

A regular business meeting and initiation of eight candidates was conducted last night at the meeting of the Rainbow Girls assembly in the K. of P. hall. Those inducted were Helen Ann Troll, Louise Turner, Betty Pfleiderer, Mary Jane Frost, Edith Osburn, Shirley Brock, Dorothy Shilrlein and Marilyn Schill. The group is planning a dance Oct. 12 and a Halloween party Oct. 16.

HAVE SESSION.

Cards were played following the business meeting of the Liberty park auxiliary which was held last night in the club rooms of the park. Mrs. Gordon Watson was in charge, and Mrs. Arthur Rice was a guest. Prizes were won by Mrs. Esther Freese, Mrs. Barbara Miller, Mrs. Christine White, Mrs. Elizabeth Stransky, and Mrs. Lena Mergel. Halloween appointments were used for the serving of refreshments. Mrs. Christ Geisel was chairman. The next meeting will be a poke luncheon Nov. 6 with Mrs. Steve Konves entertaining.

FOR COLLEGIATES

Money bags are something new for the college girl. The bags are big enough to hold essentials and small enough to slip into a pocket. They come in amusing shapes such as big hearts and miniature dispatch cases.

A Last Look at What Was Once Their Home

Fleeing from their home in a quiet London residential section, this British family, a Mr. and Mrs. Harrison take one last look at the shattered remains of their home, as they flee with the few belongings they have managed to salvage from their wrecked house.

THEATERS

Juvenile Troubles.

The breaking up of the stodgy school band and organization of the swing orchestra, the absurd travesty on the oldtime shows, the country club party at which the youngsters borrow the instruments of the professional band, are among the comical details. All this happens in "Strike Up the Band," co-starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland. There is also the dramatic sacrifice in which the youngsters use the money raised for a trip to a radio contest to save the life of a sick member of the band.

Mystery Drama.

The plight of a young newspaperman, whose testimony has sent an innocent man to the death-cell, when he finds himself the victim of a similar situation and in danger of going himself to the electric chair, is told in the story, "Stranger on the Third Floor," showing at the Madison. Peter Lorre, John McGuire and Margaret Tallichet have the leading roles. The co-feature is "River's End," with Dennis Morgan in the lead.

Bad Man of West.

The picture "The Carson City Kid", showing beginning Friday at the Ritz, deals with the adventurous escapades of the young man of that title, a fabulous character from the archives of western history. Roy Rogers has the leading role, that of the Kid who was famed as a badman, but who hobnobbed with criminals in order to make connections which would lead him to the slayer of his brother, on whom he had vowed revenge. Co-feature attraction is "The Biscuit Eater."

Adoption Racket.

The shocking story of the "adoption" racketeer, the dealer in human heartbreak, who sells infants for cash, is showing in "Babies for Sale," at the Park today through Saturday. Rochelle Hudson, Glenn Ford and Miles Mander have the leading roles. "Pals of the Saddle," is the second feature attraction, dealing with the adventures and misadventures of three cowboys who get themselves involved in a gunpowder plot.

Western and Mystery.

Showing Friday and Saturday at the Majestic will be "Billy, the Kid, in Texas" with Bob Steele in the leading role, and "Before I Hang," starring Boris Karloff. He has the role of a brilliant scientist who attempts to solve the secret of youth and turn time backward. He is weirdly transformed into a ruthless fiend by an injection of murderer's blood into his own veins.

Chicago's Youth Crowd Air Corps Recruit Offices

CHICAGO—(INS)—The U. S. Army Air Corps, as dangerous an arm as the army has, apparently also has the chief allure for adventurous youth.

From high schools, colleges, offices, laboring jobs and every walk of life Chicago youth streams to the air corps recruiting offices headed by Capt. Richard J. O'Keefe.

Many are turned down. The requirements for the air corps are tough. But most of those rejected ask a stock question:

"Is there anything besides flying that I can do in the air corps?"

Many come in early seeking advice on how they should prepare for the rigid mental examinations.

Warren Gustafson, 19, did that. He wanted to know what courses he should take in his first two years of college to prepare him for air service.

EXPENSE ITEM

CLAYTON, Mo.—(INS)—"For wear and tear on clothes—$12.50. That item was listed among the expenses of her unsuccessful primary campaign for the Democratic nomination for state representative from St. Louis County, by Mrs. Louis Crossman. Mrs. Crossman also listed, in her statement filed with the County Board of Election Commissioners, an item of $20.25 for "time lost during campaign on duties of home that had to be paid for."

Play Leads In 'Brigham Young'

BROMFIELD STORY HAS FILM PREMIERE IN CITY SATURDAY

"Brigham Young, Frontiersman," written for the screen by Louis Bromfield Mansfield's famous novelist, will have its local premiere Saturday at the Ohio theater. When it was decided to film the story of Brigham Young, the services of Bromfield, author of "The Rains Came," was obtained and he was assigned the difficult taks of putting the Mormon epic into story form.

He spent many months gathering first hand material, traveled through Utah and talked with scores of Mormons whose grandfathers had crossed the country on the great trek. So interested did he become in his subject of the film assignment that he decided to write a novel with a Mormon setting and with Brigham Young as one of the principal characters.

"Brigham Young" stars Tyrone Power while Linda Darnell has the leading feminine role and Dean Jagger, recruited from the New York stage, appears in the title role.

The heroic Mormon trek along a trail of almost insurmountable odds to ultimate freedom is one of the most impressive chapters in the growth of America. Because of the valiant battle they fought to find a place where they could live as they believed much has been written about them and their leader, Brigham Young.

Power has the important role of Jonathan Kent, Mormon scout. Among the impressive list of featured players are Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Mary Astor, Vincent Price, Jean Rogers and Ann Todd.

Brigham Young led his 20,000 followers across 1800 miles of wasteland. On the shores of Utah's Great Salt Lake he built one of the world's famous cities. He had 27 wives and 47 children. His riding and marksmanship were legend.

The filmization is big not only for its trek in which 20,000 people brave torrents, freezing cold and fever, across endless miles of trackless waste, but for the romance; the miracle, (with a million gulls, sweeping in 500 miles from the seas to save them); and the massacre at Nauvoo, with masked raiders riding by night, burning, pillaging and murdering.

LOSES OUT.

YUMA, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Ed Winn, Yuma county's famed "Marrying Justice of the Peace," who has tied the knot for many filmland celebrities who take a day off to elope to Arizona, was defeated in the primary. He lost, by a small margin to R. H. Lutes of Yuma.

ASKS FOR VOLUNTEERS

Russell Gimbel, director of the Friendly House, issued a call today for volunteers to aid in the adult English classes at the Friendly house during the fall and winter. The volunteers should be well enough grounded in English grammar to be able to teach it, Gimbel said.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LECHE PLAQUES ON JUNK HEAP

$4,656 Bronze Order Shrinks to $211 Value When It Hits Discard.

BATON ROUGE, La. —(U P)— A $4,656 order for bronze plaques which officials of former Gov. Richard W. Leche's administration wanted to place on state-constructed buildings was worth only $211 to the junkman.

The entire consignment of 143 plaques ended up in a remote corner of Louisiana's multi-million dollar state capitol after Leche resigned in June last year. Though the consignment was ordered shortly before, it arrived after the departure for Canada of Dr. James Monroe Smith, resigned president of Louisiana State University, and precipitation of the Louisiana scandals.

Reporters didn't find out for a long time what had become of the markers but later learned the entire shipment of 1,600 pounds of high grade bronze was sold to a stencil works in New Orleans for 13 cents a pound.

Other plaques, some of which bore the likeness of Leche, were torn from every building on the L. S U. campus at the order of Leche's successor in office, former Gov. Earl K. Long and his board of university supervisors.

This last batch was junked also, and capital sources said the bronze had been melted down into ash-trays and other useful gadgets.

BEES WIN OUT

WILMINGTON, Del. —(INS)— A swarm of bees holds a technical victory over Robert Silvers of Wilmington.

Attempting to prevent the bees from living in the rafters outside his house, Silvers used a burning mop on the end of a clothes pole.

The beams caught fire and three fire companies were called out.

CO-EDS SPEND FOR EDUCATION

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(INS)—The co-ed spends more than the mere male at Indiana University here, a survey has revealed.

The average student last year spent $643.22. The women spent an average of $682.70 and the men $621.07.

The lowest average for any group in the general study was $511.58, the average cost for unorganized freshmen men. The highest, $876.82 was that of junior sorority members.

Organized women spent $210.74 more than unorganized women and in the case of the men, the difference was $293.30.

The greatest difference between the expenditures of men and women on the campus was in the percentage of budget spent for recreation, amusement and clothing.

	Men	Women
Food	$192.65	$184.65
Rent	112.32	117.47
Clothing	74.30	138.12
Recreation and amusement	58.31	19.82

One of every three of the undergraduates earned at least a part of his college expenses. Approximately one of every seven students earned all expenses without any assistance from home, more than half of these being in the group of unorganized men.

RALLY DAY

Special Services Planned at Protestant Churches.

Churches holding special rallies to get their Sunday school and church members together are First Methodist, Church of Christ, Baptist, Evangelical and Reformed, United Brethren, Nazarene and Lutheran.

At the 10:45 a. m. service communion will be served by Rev. A. B. Alison, pastor of the church. This program will be followed at 12:30 p. m. by a covered-dish dinner served by members of Amy Allison class. An entertainment program will follow.

Committees appointed for the homecoming program include: Tables, Mrs. Helen Freese; reception, Mrs. Robert Shreffler; flowers, Mrs. C. S. Huber; table decoration, Mrs. W. O. Critchfield; and registration, G. O. Shilling.

FREAK LIZARD HAS TWO HEADS

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—(U.P.)—Found: A creature that didn't know whether it was coming or going!

At least it may be assumed that the lizard killed by Mrs. Alva Pettis, Fairchild, was a victim of that kind of confusion. The creature, according to Mrs. Pettis, was equipped with two heads, one at each end of its four-inch body.

In trying to escape, the lizard reversed its direction without troubling to turn around, Mrs. Pettis noted.

Downs, French Officer Meet

ENTERTAINS GROUP.

Members of the Past Pocahontas association met with Mrs. Frances Wolf, 232 West Fifth street, last night for a regular session. Mrs. Elizabeth Konves and Mrs. Ann Weaver were the associate hostesses. The evening was spent in playing five hundred and bunco. Mrs. Dorothy McCullough and Mrs. Effie Keltner were the winners. Luncheon was served. The next meeting will be Nov. 6 with the hostesses to be announced later.

INDUCT MEMBER.

Miss Coral Logan was inducted into the Women of the Moose last night when the group held a regular meeting at the hall. Following the business session a contest was conducted with Mrs. Pearl Miller winning the prize. Refreshments were served at gaily decorated tables following the session. The meeting was in charge of the publicity committee headed by Mrs. Vanessa Carr. Miss Frances E. Gensley was guest speaker.

ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. G. C. Wehinger, Burger avenue, was hostess last evening to members of her bridge club for the first meeting of the fall season. Contract was played at two tables with prizes being awarded to Mrs. R. D. Beck, a guest Miss Ruth Morris, and Mrs. R. L. Gresmer. At the close of the games refreshments were served at one long table which was dainty with fall flowers. The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. John Newcomer, Lexington.

HAVE SESSION.

Members of the Wesleyan Service guild of the Ontario Community church met Tuesday with Mrs. Harold Strohminger. Mrs. Harry Smith was associate hostess. Devotions were led by Mrs. Sherman Au, and Mrs. L. C. Stingel gave the program on the subject "The Impact of the Occident." Stories of the mission fields were told. Contest prize winners were Mrs. Carl Smith and Miss Rhea Downs. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Au, west of Ontario, Nov. 5.

HAVE SESSION.

Members of the Women's auxiliary of the International Typographical Union met with Mrs. Eldon Becker, 214 Atcheson avenue, Tuesday evening with 13 members and two guests present. The evening was spent socially with Mrs. Robert Olds, Shelby, Mrs. James Gills and Mrs. Emma Fisher winning the prizes. Fall flowers were used to decorate the table. A dinner meeting will be held Nov. 4 at the Country Kitchen on the Amoy road. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Harold Bracey, Mrs. Olds and Mrs. J. P. Gills.

INITIATE EIGHT.

A regular business meeting and initiation of eight candidates was conducted last night at the meeting of the Rainbow Girls assembly in the K. of P. hall. Those inducted were Helen Ann Troll, Louise Turner, Betty Pfleiderer, Mary Jane Frost, Edith Osburn, Shirley Brock, Dorothy Shilrlein and Marilyn Schill. The group is planning a dance Oct. 12 and a Halloween party Oct. 16.

HAVE SESSION.

Cards were played following the business meeting of the Liberty park auxiliary which was held last night in the club rooms of the park. Mrs. Gordon Watson was in charge, and Mrs. Arthur Rice was a guest. Prizes were won by Mrs. Esther Freese, Mrs. Barbara Miller; Mrs. Christine White, Mrs. Elizabeth Stransky, and Mrs. Lena Mergel. Halloween appointments were used for the serving of refreshments. Mrs. Christ Geisel was chairman. The next meeting will be a poke luncheon Nov. 6 with Mrs. Steve Konves entertaining.

FOR COLLEGIATES

Money bags are something new for the college girl. The bags are big enough to hold essentials and small enough to slip into a pocket. They come in amusing shapes such as big hearts and miniature dispatch cases.

A Last Look at What Was Once Their Home

Fleeing from what was once a quiet London residential section, this British family, a Mr. and Mrs. Herman, take one last look at the shattered remains of their home, as they flee with the few belongings they have managed to salvage from their wrecked house.

THEATERS

Juvenile Troubles.

The breaking up of the stodgy school band and organization of the swing orchestra, the absurd travesty on the oldtime shows, the country club party at which the youngsters borrow the instruments of the professional band, are among the comical details. All this happens in "Strike Up the Band," co-starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland. There is also the dramatic sacrifice in which the youngsters use the money raised for a trip to a radio contest to save the life of a sick member of the band.

Mystery Drama.

The plight of a young newspaperman, whose testimony has sent an innocent man to the death-cell, when he finds himself the victim of a similar situation and in danger of going himself to the electric chair, is told in the story, "Stranger on the Third Floor," showing at the Madison. Peter Lorre, John McGuire and Margaret Tallichet have the leading roles. The co-feature is "River's End," with Dennis Morgan in the lead.

Bad Man of West.

The picture "The Carson City Kid", showing beginning Friday at the Ritz, deals with the adventurous escapades of the young man of that title, a fabulous character from the archives of western history. Roy Rogers has the leading role, that of the Kid who was famed as a badman, but who hobnobbed with criminals in order to make connections which would lead him to the slayer of his brother, on whom he had vowed revenge. Co-feature attraction is "The Biscuit Eater."

Adoption Racket.

The shocking story of the "adoption" racketeer, the dealer in human heartbreak, who sells infants for cash, is showing in "Babies for Sale," at the Park today through Saturday. Rochelle Hudson, Glenn Ford and Miles Mander have the leading roles. "Pals of the Saddle," is the second feature attraction, dealing with the adventures and misadventures of three cowboys who get themselves involved in a gunpowder plot.

Western and Mystery.

Showing Friday and Saturday at the Majestic will be "Billy, the Kid, in Texas" with Bob Steele in the leading role, and "Before I Hang," starring Boris Karloff. He has the role of a brilliant scientist who attempts to solve the secret of youth and turn time backward. He is weirdly transformed into a ruthless fiend by an injection of murderer's blood into his own veins.

Chicago's Youth Crowd Air Corps Recruit Offices

CHICAGO—(INS)—The U. S. Army Air Corps, as dangerous an arm as the army has, apparently also has the chief allure for adventurous youth.

From high schools, colleges, offices, laboring jobs and every walk of life Chicago youth streams to the air corps recruiting offices headed by Capt. Richard J. O'Keefe.

Many are turned down. The requirements for the air corps are tough. But most of those rejected ask a stock question:

"Is there anything besides flying that I can do in the air corps?"

EXPENSE ITEM

CLAYTON, Mo.—(INS)—"For wear and tear on clothes—$12.50. That item was listed among the expenses of her unsuccessful primary campaign for the Democratic nomination for state representative from St. Louis County, by Mrs. Louis Crossman. Mrs. Crossman also listed, in her statement filed with the County Board of Election Commissioners, an item of $20.25 for "time lost during campaign on duties of home that had to be paid for."

"Brigham Young, Frontiersman," written for the screen by Louis Bromfield, Mansfield's famous novelist, will have its local premiere Saturday at the Ohio theater. When it was decided to film the story of Brigham Young, the services of Bromfield, author of "The Rains Came," was obtained and he was assigned the difficult taks of putting the Mormon epic into story form.

He spent many months gathering first hand material, traveled through Utah and talked with scores of Mormons whose grandfathers had crossed the country on the great trek. So interested did he become in his subject of the film assignment that he decided to write a novel with a Mormon setting and with Brigham Young as one of the principal characters.

"Brigham Young" stars Tyrone Power while Linda Darnell has the leading feminine role and Dean Jagger, recruited from the New York stage, appears in the title role.

The heroic Mormon trek along a trail of almost insurmountable odds to ultimate freedom is one of the most impressive chapters in the growth of America. Because of the valiant battle they fought to find a place where they could live as they believed much has been written about them and their leader, Brigham Young.

Power has the important role of Jonathan Kent, Mormon scout. Among the impressive list of featured players are Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Mary Astor, Vincent Price, Jean Rogers and Ann Todd.

Brigham Young led his 20,000 followers across 1800 miles of wasteland. On the shores of Utah's Great Salt Lake he built one of the world's famous cities. He had 27 wives and 47 children. His riding and markmanship were legend.

The filmization is big not only for its trek in which 20,000 people brave torrents, freezing cold and fever, across endless miles of trackless waste, but for the romance; the miracle, (with a million gulls, sweeping in 500 miles from the seas to save them); and the massacre at Nauvoo, with masked raiders riding by night, burning, pillaging and murdering.

LOSES OUT.

Church Meetings Occupy Women of Two Societies

Members of the Findley-Anderson Bible class of the United Presbyterian church met yesterday with Mrs. R. D. Anderson, Western avenue, with Mrs. J. C. Boyd and Mrs. T. M. Bell assisting. There were 24 members and one guest, Mrs. Ethel Boyd, Cleveland, present.

Mrs. Harry Packham led the devotions and conducted the business meeting. A social hour followed, and refreshments were served. Mrs. O. F. Garver, Ohio State Reformatory, will entertain Nov. 6. Mrs. Harry Martin and Mrs. Flora Curtis will assist.

The Women's Missionary society of the United Brethren church was in session with Mrs. Edward Underwood in charge yesterday. This was the annual literature meeting, and Mrs. Underwood spoke on the subject and led the worship.

Mrs. Wendell Brown talked on illiteracy in the world, and Mrs. L. F. Hout spoke on the denominational magazine. Other speakers included Mrs. John H. Miller, and Mrs. H. M. Hout. Mrs. Leonard Hutzelman was in charge of the session.

Two new members, Mrs. Edith Litt, and Mrs. J. P. Keller, were welcomed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. D. H. Stoner, Mrs. Earl Crider, Mrs. A. J. Stevenson. The next meeting will be held Nov. 6.

TO ATTEND SESSIONS.

At the meeting of the Republican Women's council executive board yesterday final arrangements were made to attend the luncheon at the Lutheran church in Shelby at noon next Tuesday. Katherine Neff Cox, North Canton, will be the speaker and Mrs. Ralph Irwin is chairman. Reservations will be accepted by Mrs. Carl Spangler through Monday noon. Plans were also made for attending the Ohio Republican rally at Columbus Oct. 11. Miss Marian Martin, national director of women's organizations, will be the guest speaker.

HAVE SCHOOL.

Members of the Rebekah lodge conducted their annual school of instruction yesterday afternoon at the I. O. O. F. hall. Supper was served at 6 p. m. and the state officers were guests. The regular meeting followed with the initiation of Ethel Conn and Inez Tawse. The next meeting will be held Oct. 16.

ENTERTAINS CLUB.

Mrs. G. L. Cairns, 196 North Benton street, gave the lesson yesterday when she entertained members of the Ruth-Naomi Bible club. Mrs. V. R. Brown, who will entertain Oct. 16 at her home, 234 Rae avenue, at 2 p. m., led the devotions. The lesson for the next meeting will be the third chapter of Acts.

Activities of Social Clubs

A NEW organization, the Emanon club, was officially started last night with a wiener roast at Middle park. The following officers were elected: Miss Donna Weaver, president; Miss Rose Kimbel, vice president; Miss Helen Kilgore, secretary; Miss Margaret Snyder, treasurer; Miss Ina Harry, program chairman, and Miss Esther Snyder, club reporter. The next meeting, the date of which was not set, will be held with Miss Margaret Snyder.

Elaine Miller was hostess at her home, 208 Sturges avenue, entertained members of the Little Women's club yesterday when officers were elected. They are Betty Gerger, president; Mildred Stone, vice president; Donna Mae Bonecutter, secretary; Eileen Pearce, treasurer; Marjorie Shoup, sergeant at arms, and Elaine Miller, corporal at arms and reporter. The Oct. 16 meeting will be held at the same place.

* * *

Mrs. C. G. Wendland was a guest yesterday when Mrs. F. E. Balliett, 107 Crouse street, entertained members of the Golden Link club. Rummy was played and prizes won by Mrs. Eva Lucabaugh and Mrs. William Bender. Luncheon was served at a table decorated with crimson chrysanthemums. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Emma Gamber, 102 West Dickson avenue, Nov. 6. Mrs. Balliett was presented with baskets of flowers yesterday by four of the members.

* * *

There were nine members of the Do-Be-There club present at the meeting held with Mrs. Gilbert Mast, 401 West Fifth street, yesterday. After the short business meeting cards were played, and Mrs. J. H. Hodges, Mrs. Ray Kline and Mrs. Edna Creps won the prizes. The table appointments were yellow and white. The next meeting will be held Oct. 23 with Mrs. E. M. Tinkey, 200 Bowland road.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

When I knocked at my father's door, Philip Veritzen stood directly behind me, and I could hear his spasmodic, agitated breathing as if he had been running.

It was no time for me to linger, I told myself, and when my father opened the door, I spoke hastily:

"Here is Mr. Veritzen, Father," I said, conscious that I was being superfluously banal. "You won't need me for anything, will you?"

My father's eyes met mine with humorous and indulgent comprehension.

"No, my dear," he said, and with a muttered, "then please excuse me," I fairly scuttled away to the room which Lillian and I were sharing.

"How's the Great Panjandrum?" she asked, but her mirth faded quickly at my answer.

"You wouldn't know him," I said soberly. "He's terribly upset, unaccountably humble, and insists that Olga must not know he is here, until he knows how this interview with Father turns out."

"The inference being," Lillian said thoughtfully, "that the interview might terminate in such a manner as to make possible an end to the royal romance."

"Exactly," I answered, "but what in the world could have happened?"

"A dozen things," she retorted, "but, whatever it may be, I'll wager a good bit it has to do with the melodrama in which your father, Jack Leslie, Mary and Noel are playing star roles, with the rest of us doing bit parts and acting as supers."

"You mean," I said slowly, "that the old connection we suspected between Jack Leslie and Philip Veritzen is—"

Her eyes were suddenly somber and troubled, and she tapped my lips with quick, imperative fingers.

"Don't even whisper it until we're sure," she said. "One thing's certain, however, old dear. The Moving Finger writes, and all the rest of it, including the fact that we can't do a single thing about it. So we might as well sit and invite our souls, or is there something else on the program that will engage your immediate attention? Katherine has gone to the nursery to give Mother Graham a chance to go to her room and have her dinner in peace, while Katrina and the kids have theirs in the nursery. But she said she'd be on hand as soon as she's free, and will lend a hand in anything we want done."

"I haven't anything that needs doing for a few minutes," I said.

"The world is coming to an end!" Lillian declaimed, smiling at me. "But what's on hand after those few minutes? Don't say Katie, because Katrina and I are going to hold up her hands in the wilderness until dinner is over and the dishes are cleared away."

"Then there's only Ede," I said. "I promised her that Dicky should see her."

"I know," she said, adding cynically, "And I wish you joy of your job getting the Dicky-bird hobbled and in there. However, he hasn't finished his chores for the Chief yet, so you don't need to worry about that for awhile. But what about Phil? Does he know where he's to park himself yet?"

"No, he doesn't," I said in troubled fashion.

"And by the time the Chief gets through with him," she said, "he'll be so dazed he'll have to be led by the hand to the door and pushed inside. I think it's on the cards for you and me to stick around until Phil collapses in the hall outside your father's door. Then we can pick up the pieces and stack them in your room."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Oct. 4.

A DAY of many surprises and sudden visitations may be read from the complicated chain of planetary configurations. Quite an unforeseen and breathtaking event may upset the usual routine, and demand an abrupt about-face in plans, objectives and possibly environs and associates as well. There are rather peculiar and subtle aspects to confront, but since the mind is in fine condition, profound and shrewd, and the energies aggressive and forthright, victory and definite success may be looked for. The purely personal relations are intimately involved, possibly in a romantic or emotional nature. Feminine intrigues and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised to encounter a year of the unforeseen, unpredictable and unexpected, with sudden uprootings or a definite change in plans and objectives. New places and contacts should be in order, with surprises deeply affecting the private as well as business life. These mysterious visitations will be successfully manipulated because of alert, deep, shrewd and intuitive grasp of challenging situations. But be vigilant to intrigue and suspicious circumstances.

Wednesday Study Club Has Guest Luncheon

A 1 o'clock guest luncheon was held yesterday at the Westbrook Country club by members of the Wednesday Study club when Dr. J. L. King, Denison university, spoke on "Robert Nathan, Poetic Novelist." There were 47 members and two out-of-town guests, Mrs. King and Mrs. Floyd Bovard, Barberton, president. The tables were decorated with green flowers.

Dr. King spoke of the 19 books including two volumes of poetry written by Nathan. He gave a philosophical discussion of the writer. The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 with Mrs. Charles E. Nail. Mrs. Henry Sanford will be in charge of a dramatic program.

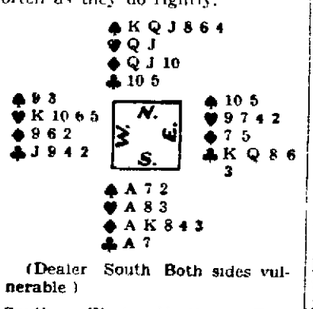
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T ASK PERFECTION

IN EVERYTHING we attempt, perfection is the goal we would like to attain, but something we never reach. It is absurd to expect your side always to reach the best possible contract on every hand it gets. Plenty of them are not susceptible of bidding that reaches the ideal spot. Some wind up with what amounts practically to good old-fashioned guesses which turn out wrongly about as often as they do rightly.



(Dealer South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♣	Pass

That deal was bid a lot of different ways at the various tables of a duplicate game, but nobody reached the ideal contract of 7-No Trumps, which is a laydown with thirteen solid tricks to be run. Some people forced on the second round with 3-Diamonds instead of 2-No Trumps, but that bid had its drawbacks. Over that North had no idea whether or not South had any fit at all for his suit, whereas after the 2-No Trumps he could be sure of a good enough fit.

With the bidding as shown, North was now able to invite slam safely in his own suit by jumping to game instead of merely calling 3-Spades to be followed by an additional rebid of them. After that jump South used the Blackwood convention, which informed him his partner had one king. That king, however, might be in another suit than spades. Furthermore, there was no way North could let South know about the diamond holding. He would have bid exactly the same with that holding in clubs instead.

In view of North's bidding, South could not even safely venture the small slam in No Trumps. As near as he could tell, an ace might get knocked out by the lead, and there might be a second round trick to be lost somewhere. The spade contract was the sounder, even though some players got better scores with 6-No Trumps, bid wildly.

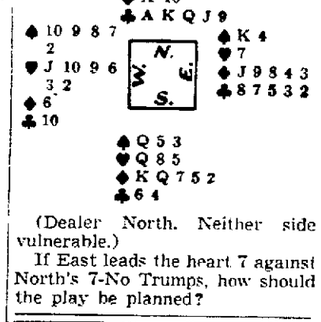
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer North. Neither side vulnerable.)

Give Out Programs At Dinner-Bridge

Philomathian club members opened their season with a patriotic dinner-bridge party at the Westbrook Country club last evening. Places for 20 were laid at one long table which was attractive with flowers, tapers and favors in the red, white and blue color scheme.

Members of the program committee were hostesses, namely, Mrs. Otis Cummins, chairman, Mrs. Richard Tappan, Miss Margaret Black and Miss Kathleen Sturges. Program booklets were presented.

Prizes for the diversion were awarded to Mrs. Martin Brunner, Miss Angeline Shanoff and Mrs. Fred Hout.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 16 at the Cummins home, 411 Edgewood road, at which time John Correll will speak on "Propaganda in Politics."

WOMEN RENEW MEXICAN DRIVE FOR FRANCHISE

Congress Gets Petition To Pass Enabling Act For Feminine Vote.

MEXICO CITY — (UP)— Mexican women, barred from the recent national elections despite the fact a law has been passed giving them the right to vote, have renewed their campaign for suffrage and equal political rights with men.

Women were not allowed to vote in July because, although the 37th Congress of the nation 18 months ago approved a constitutional amendment granting them that right, the amendment must be ratified by two-thirds of the republic's 28 states and so far only two states have approved.

But the suffragettes are wasting no time. Hardly had the new administration congress convened, Sept 1 than the new senators and deputies were confronted with a letter from the Mexican branch of the Union of American Women. The letter requested that the Congress pass the necessary enabling legislation to the amendment, and hasten its ratification by the states

One of the leaders in the drive is Mrs. Margarita Robles de Mendoza, well-known in New York where she spent much time working with Pan American women's affairs. She is also a high officer of the union.

The feminist movement in Mexico is far from unified In the ranks of Gen Juan Andreu Almazan, independent claimant to the presidency are several women's organizations Most of them are conservative Potentially these groups wield a great deal of influence. It has been rumored that fear of the rightist tendencies of these organizations prompted the leftist Cardenas' administration to withhold women suffrage even after the primary legislation was passed

But the more articulate women's groups identify themselves definitely with the present administration It is understood that several Communist sympathizers are active in this more liberal women's camp The letter the Union of American Women sent to Congress cheered the administration's declaration of Gen Manuel Avila Camacho as the legal president-elect as a triumph for the Mexican revolution and demanded woman suffrage as a right consistent with the liberal tendencies of the regime

Hailing the victory of the Mexican Revolutionary—administration—party, the letter said: "There is no reason now to be afraid of the seats being occupied by men of the reaction. Also there is no reason to delay the declaration to grant women the right to vote and to hold office.

"Many times we have heard from persons apparently in sympathy with the revolution that 'Mexican women are reactionaries and to grant them voting rights would be tantamount to giving victory to the enemy.' Never in Mexico's history has there been a more democratic election than the one just passed It is true that women participated on both sides, their participation was secondary but valuable

"We hope when Manuel Avila Camacho takes charge of the government he will comply with his words, 'as an act of justice of the revolution, we must help the Mexican woman granting her full rights'"

ASKS TO SELL CHURCH LAND

The Ohio Conference of the Evangelical church today had filed a petition in Richland county common pleas court, asking authority to sell an abandoned church property in Washington township south of Mansfield

Filed by trustees of the church conference, Earl E. Heminger, A. F. Seerist, and Ed Wheatcraft, the petition points out that the property formerly was owned by the Evangelical Society of Washington township, now non-existent, and no longer is of any use to the church conference

TALKS SUNDAY

Bishop O. B. Ulery of Springfield, an active member of the Brethren in Christ peace committee, will be the principal speaker at a peace meeting to be held at Chestnut Grove church one mile east of five points Sunday at 11 a. m.

For his subject Bishop Ulery has chosen "Non-Resistance." In his talk he will attempt to clarify the Christian's attitude toward war, its scriptural basis and present day application and recognition

BIG CAMERA GUN SHOOTS SUN FROM COLORADO OBSERVATORY

CLIMAX, Colo. —(UP)— Here on the site of the largest molybdenum mine in the world, scientists are trying to "shoot" the sun from a solar observatory which is the only one of its kind in the Western Hemisphere

Seeking information on the relation of sun spots to earthly objects, the astronomical scholars are attempting to study the sun through photographs taken by a 16-foot-long "coronagraph"—similar in appearance to a telescope and equippedwith a movie camera and a metal disc which creates artificial eclipses.

Scientists hope the instrument may enable them to learn the cause of solar disturbances, such as those which caused world-wide paralysis of wire and radio services last Easter Sunday.

Built by Harvard University under the direction of Dr. Harold H. Menzel, professor of astrophysics, the observatory will be open the year 'round despite heavy snows which virtually isolate the area during the winter months.

Walter O. Roberts, 25, a Harvard graduate, will be the man behind the guns. With his wife he will live in a cozy electrically-heated house which adjoins the observatory.

The sun tower, on the slope of 11,513-foot Fremont pass, was completed on Sept. 8. Only two other such observatories exist—one in the Swiss Alps and the other in the Pyrenees of France.

The new building is only a short distance from the Climax Molybdenum mine, which before the European war produced more than three-fourths of the world's supply. The site was selected because of the altitude and dust-free air.

NEW BOTTLE

NEW YORK —(INS)— Companion piece of the new milk bottle that won't gurgle is the medicine bottle that won't drip, thus ending the bane of sticky sides and shelves that made old-fashioned medicine bottles so unattractive. The new bottle is equipped with a special lip that returns the drip to the bottle instead of permitting it to run down the sides.

Senate O.K. Looms on $1,482,693,636 Defense Fund

LEADERS SEE QUICK ACTION ON LAST BILL

Airport Improvement Program, However, Threatens Delay of Congress Recess.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The last big defense appropriations bill of the session was expected to slide through the senate without difficulty today, but disagreement over a preparedness airport construction program put a new stumbling block on the rocky road to a recess for congress.

Senate leaders saw quick approval for the house-approved $1,482,693,636 defense fund measure, which is to finance the peace-time conscription program and the concurrent expansion of the standing army.

The outlook was quite different, however, for a $200,000,000 war department civil functions bill, which, when passed by the house, contained an $80,000,000 item for the start of work on 4,000 new airports. A building program threatened to delay senate action on this legislation.

Recess plans, accordingly, were up in the air. Congress started the week with hopes of cleaning up the legislative calendar and getting away by Sunday. Now, however, the recess talk was in terms of some day next week.

The $1.482,693,636 defense appropriations bill called up for action today represented an increase of $12,700,000 over the house-approved total.

Provides For Equipment.

Besides funds for conscription and the maintenance of an army of 1,399,441 men, the bill allocates money to expedite airplane construction, to speed up airplane pilot training and to purchase 78,015 new motor vehicles for the army.

The threat of trouble over the $200,000,000 war department civil functions bill arose after elimination of the airport construction provisions already voted by the house.

The appropriations committee cut out this item when it approved the measure yesterday, but Senator Adams (D., Colo.) said he would not be surprised if administration sentiment developed for its return to the bill.

Ohio Farm Youth Leads Police to Attack Weapon

TIFFIN—(U.P.) Donald Wagler, 19, was held in the Seneca county jail today and Sheriff Verne Deats said the young farm worker had confessed the bludgeoning of Paul E. Schafer, 33, Reed township tenant farmer.

Schafer, severely beaten as he laid in bed early yesterday, was near death in Mercy hospital with a crushed skull.

Sheriff Deats said Wagler told him that he had hit Schafer with a club during a quarrel after he had returned from an evening with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wagler, who live five miles south of Findlay. Wagler directed officers to underbrush a quarter of a mile from the house and there a bloody club was found.

Wagler said the quarrel was over the use of Schafer's car, and wages which he said that Schafer owed him.

Suspicion turned to Wagler when the beaten widower's daughters, Emma Louise, 12, and Frances Eilee, 10, told officials that the family dog did not bark when they were awakened by footsteps and moaning.

Deats said that Wagler signed a confession.

CROWD AT FAIR IN LOUDONVILLE

Officials Estimate 20,000 Jam Streets; Festival Closes Tonight.

Officials estimated more than 20,000 attended the Wednesday night session of the annual Loudonville street fair. It is expected there will be even a larger attendance tonight when the fair closes.

Amusements, concessions and various exhibits are part of the fair. Band contests and other miscellaneous programs are presented throughout the afternoon and evening.

GRANGE TO MEET

Morrow county Pomona grange will meet with the Jug's Corners grange, Oct. 11, at 8 p. m., with a basket supper being served following the meeting.

At a meeting held last Friday the grange was inspected by County Deputy Eastman Barkey. A tableau, two readings, accordion music, a play, and an apple pie contest were part of the program.

New Atlantic Naval Patrol Established

Capt. R. J. Nichols of Battery D was proudly displaying a new ring to his friends today. Nichols has been drill captain for the Baku Grotto patrol and last night the group got together for an oyster supper to honor him and presented him with the ring bearing the Grotto insignia. Nichols leaves soon with the National Guard for a year's training at Camp Shelby in Mississippi.

It takes only the Loudonville fair to get Charles F. Kettering, Loudonville native son and noted research engineer, back to this section of Ohio, he told an audience last night in the Westinghouse auditorium. "When the Mansfield electrical engineers asked me several weeks ago to come here and talk to them, I said if they could make it the second day of the Loudonville Free fair, I'd be here all right. They agreed to that, so here I am," he said.

A clump of violets on display in The News-Journal window is evidence that even Mother Nature is confused by the strange behavior of the weatherman this year. There are a half dozen violets in bloom on the clump and a number of buds. It was found near Newville by Mr. and Mrs. Van A. Sheehy, 191 East Second street.

* * *

O. P. Crouse, 62 Crouse street, went all the way to Doug Miller's camp at Mackinac City, Mich., to get rid of his hay fever. But, according to friends who returned from the camp yesterday, all he got was trouble. Shortly after arriving at the camp, Crouse brought out a brand new gun to do a little target shooting. While out on a prowl through the woods, the local game warden spied Crouse and began asking questions. The warden accused Crouse of shooting squirrels out of season and was all for putting him in the local jug. Crouse finally got out of the jam, but only after he had done a lot of urgent explaining.

ACCIDENTS NET DEATH, ESCAPE

One person was dead and another escaped injury when his automobile was completely demolished in traffic accidents in the Richland county area yesterday.

Injured when she fell from a moving automobile, near Upper Sandusky several days ago, Mrs. Nellie Short, 66, of Royal Oak, Mich., died last night in Bucyrus City hospital without regaining consciousness. She had sustained a fractured skull when she attempted to open the door of the automobile in which she was riding and fell from the vehicle.

The body was removed to Royal Oak yesterday, where services will be held. She is survived by two daughters and a son.

Failing to see a row of barrels stretched across Route 13, seven miles north of Mansfield, at a detour, Ford A. Bracey, 43, New London, drove into them, totally demolishing his automobile, highway patrolmen said today.

Although Bracey was uninjured in the accident, highway patrolmen stated that it was "a miracle" that he did not seriously injure himself. Patrolmen said the barrels were well lighted.

DEATH CLAIMS CHARLES STUMPH

MT. GILEAD—Charles Stumph, 55, a native of Mt. Vernon, died last night at his home near Chesterville, after a long illness. He had spent the greater part of his life in the vicinity of Chesterville.

Surviving are two children, Tullas Stumph, Columbus, Mrs. Goldie Hulse, Fredericktown and three sisters and two brothers. They are Mrs. Alice Gordon, Shawano, Wis., Mrs. Cora Taylor, Chesterville, Mrs. Mildred Scarborough, Fredericktown, Frank Stumph, Edison, and Clarence Stumph of Chesterville. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and of the I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges.

Services will be held at the Chesterville church but arrangements were incomplete today.

DOLLY MADISONS HEAR TALK BY AKRON DEMOCRATIC LEADER

George Farr, assistant prosecutor of Summit county and vice president of the League of Young Democrats of Ohio, was the principal speaker yesterday evening when 225 members of the Dolly Madison club, their families and Democratic candidates met in the pavilion at North Lake park.

Following a dinner at 6:30 p. m., Mrs. Louise Reese, chairman of the evening, introduced a number of Democratic candidates, who gave brief talks. They were: Edward Sterling, judge of the court of appeals, Stephen Young, candidate for congress at large; William Hurley, state senator; Frank Robinson, Don Orewiler, Harold Lutz, Leslie Wagner, Howard Wenning, Guy Stewart, Ray Hout, Howard Sword, Charles Payne and Glenn Marriott, all candidates for county offices.

New members of the Dolly Madison club were then introduced. They are: Mrs. E. B. Kallmerten; Mrs. Fred Bushnell, Mrs. M. S. Smart, Mrs. Neva Hout, Mrs. Walter Dow, Mrs. William Bell, Mrs. Sara Ford, Mrs. Harvey Logan, Mrs. N. A. Pluck, Mrs. M. F. Weil, Mrs. Joseph Woerth and Miss Mary Winans.

Mrs. Clark Brook, president, told of attending a recent convention in Columbus, a Democratic luncheon in Urbana and a meeting of the Martha Jefferson club at Shiloh. She announced that the club has been invited to attend a meeting of the Monticello club in Ashland, Oct. 28, when Mrs. L. D. Bower will be the transportation chairman. Mrs. Martha Wolfe was named chairman of the Dental Clinic ticket sales for the book reviews, which are to begin soon.

Mrs. Reese also introduced Miss Mary Newcomer, new local president of the Young Democrats, and E. B. Kallmerten, state central committeeman. The club donated gifts to the Richland County Tuberculosis sanatorium. Music on the program was furnished by Miss Kathryn Landfair, who played several accordian solos.

Mrs. Brook announced there will be a rally for all Democrats of the county at John Simpson Junior high school on Oct. 15, with Martin L. Davey and John McSweeney as the principal speakers.

TWO INVASIONS

Alarms In Past Six Weeks Met With Chemical Fogs.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Two invasion alarms have been sounded along the English channel coast in the past six weeks, "bringing the army and navy springing to their stations" and causing the release of a chemical fog screen, says Vincent Sheean, foreign correspondent, who arrived yesterday aboard the Atlantic Clipper from Lisbon.

Sheean said the first alarm was sounded Aug. 25 and the second Sept. 7, and on both occasions reports for the United States were suppressed by British censors.

"Of course, I don't know whether or not there were any actual attempts to land German troops in England," he said.

Sheean said property damage in London is "terrific", but military damage has not been so heavy.

SEEN AS MOVE TOWARD NAVIES IN TWO OCEANS

Spokesmen Declare Force Will Consist of 125 Vessels, Many Aircraft.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Establishment of a new naval patrol force in the Atlantic was believed today to be a preliminary step in the formation of the projected two-ocean navy.

The navy department announced that more than 125 of its vessels and an undisclosed number of aircraft operating off the eastern seaboard would be consolidated into a new patrol which will be expanded periodically. It is another move to strengthen Atlantic defenses and coincides with preparations for new air and naval bases on recently acquired British sites.

Spokesmen said the new force would consist of the present Atlantic squadron, ships and planes of the neutrality patrol, new vessels under construction, and ships recently purchased for conversion to naval use.

There was no indication that any ships in the main fleet in the Pacific would be recalled.

The official announcement said that placing all the Atlantic vessels under one command would result in "increased efficiency in the operations and training of the vessels."

Congress already has authorized construction of enough new warships to provide large sized fleets for both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The money for actual construction will be appropriated by future congresses. It is expected to cost about $1,000,000,000.

The new patrol, spokesmen said, will become operative "in the near future" under command of Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis, commander of the Atlantic squadron, but still will be part of the main fleet.

Interesting People.

(And It's the Little Things You Remember.)

Charles Laughton, who is very handy with a crocheting needle, also knits his own sweaters. . . . Artie Shaw has been a success for years now, but he can't quite get over the days when his life was a succession of one-night jumps. In the most fashionable restaurants, Artie forgets they're not dog wagons and orders—from force of habit—Western sandwiches. . . .

Martha Raye is the female counterpart of Tommy Manville. He likes chorus girls, she likes chorus boys. Was out with five of them the other night. . . .

Randolph Scott, the movie dream prince, is a prolific love letter writer, but he always begins the letter with the girl's pet name, and ends it with her pet name for him. He puts a little set of code initials on the envelope, in the "S. W. A. K." manner.

That fellow smoking a cigar and looking sadder than anyone in the Stork club is Clifford Odets.

William Saroyan, the playwright, is Pollyanna in pants. He spouts optimism in the early morning hours, thinks life, the world, and everything is wonderful—especially Saroyan. . . .

Dick Merrill, the aviator, never smokes, drinks, or dances, but he spends as many hours in night clubs as he does in hangars. . . . When you meet Don Ameche for the first time you're shocked at the way the films libel him. He's so much prettier! . . .

John Charles Thomas, the baritone, has a tremendous appetite and used to like to amaze people who weren't aware of it by displaying it at unexpected places.

Once, riding in a dining car on a train, he found himself seated opposite a meek looking stranger.

When the waiter came for the order, Thomas said in a resounding voice, "I'd like a dozen soft boiled eggs." After repeating the order in astonishment, the waiter went off to get it. The meek looking stranger couldn't stand it any longer.

"Excuse me," he said, "did I hear you say a dozen soft boiled eggs?"

"Yes, you did," replied Thomas, politely.

Before Paulette Goddard was in great demand in the movies, she amused herself by conducting a contest with Juliette, proprietor of a Hollywood beauty salon. They decided to see which one could grow the longer fingernails.

Paulette got hers out to about two inches, and painted them a vivid red, and on a clear day you could see them from Catalina—but they looked too exotic in the films so she had to cut them off. When she trimmed them, she kept them, the way a mother keeps her baby's first curls. . . .

Paul Draper keeps fit by bicycling in Central park. . . . Mayor LaGuardia, whose name always crops up in a gag line in a musical comedy, loves this kind of ribbing. Lucius Beebe is a ditto good sport—invariably comes back to see the show several times if he's kidded in it.

Playwright Elmer Rice loves to travel, and in normal times he just gets up and goes to Borneo or Rangoon or some other exotic spot on the map, and at a moment's notice. . . . One day he was riding down the Shanghai Bund in a ricksha when another ricksha came along bearing one of Rice's best friends, one he hadn't seen in the Algonquin lobby for a long time.

"Hello, Jack," Rice called, casually, "Where've you been keeping yourself?" . . .

Tamara Geva, the ballerina, eats Russian sturgeon almost every day of her life. . . . If a lad says "my brother-in-law said," that's Barry Wood, the Hit Parade Singer, talking about Oscar Levant.

Billy Rose has decided to keep his Aquacade kids happy. He shows old-time movies backstage between performances.

Betty Hutton, the jitterbug comes to rehearsals of "Panama Hattie" dressed in evening clothes, ermine and orchids. . . . Robert Benchley always disregards traffic lights when he crosses the street—he just lifts an umbrella or an imperious hand to stop oncoming cars. So far, it's worked.

Pouches under the orbs are actually becoming to Adolph Menjou—on him, they look chic. . . . When Helen Morgan, who used to sit in pianos and sing for a living, sees an evening dress she likes, she orders it, but tells the shop to dye it black, because she never wears any other color at night.

Dorothy Lamour used to wear dark glasses around Hollywood in the days before she was a success, because she hoped she'd be taken for a star. Now she's one of the few stars who never wear dark glasses—because she doesn't want to be mistaken for anybody but Dorothy Lamour!

Monte Proser, the night club impresario, used to shave with a piece of broken glass when he was a hobo years ago—or so he says—but now that he's prosperous he gets a barber shop shave every night.

Max Gordon has a horror of being left alone. . . . Gregory LaCava, the Hollywood director, would rather engage you in conversation about the distant time when he played semi pro ball than let you discuss his current cinema epic.

Pianist Josef Hofman is a spare time inventor and holds numerous patents—including one for a new type of oil burner.

Glenn Young, the yacht-owner, is Peggy Hopkins Joyce's most naive suitor in matters pertaining to night life. The other evening in the Stork club he pointed to a gentleman who was dining alone and asked Peggy: "Who is that fellow? I see him every time I come in here."

Peggy looked. The "fellow" was Sherman Billingsley.

Reds Pin Hopes on Bucky Walters to Even Series

Overpowered By Tiger Bats In Opener

Campbell's Home Run In Fifth Puts Finishing Touch on Rout of National Loop Champs.

By GAYLE TALBOT, Associated Press Sports Writer.

CINCINNATI—It looked again today like the National league had overmatched itself as the Cincinnati Reds reeled under the impact of an opening 7 to 2 defeat by the Detroit Tigers and sought desperately to come back.

Again it looked like boys had been sent out to tackle grown men. Today's game at Crosley Field was only the second of the big series that decides the championship, yet the experts, a majority of whom picked Cincinnati to win, already were shaking their heads and wondering what could have brought them to make such a cockeyed choice.

The one hope of the Reds to avert a rout probably as disastrous as that they suffered a year ago at the mauling bats of the New York Yankees rested today in the stout right arm and cool pitching head of Bucky Walters.

If Walters could stop the Tigers and square the series before the two clubs switched to Detroit for the next three battles starting tomorrow, then there might be a chance for the locals. But the Reds looked bad in every way yesterday as the Tigers blasted Paul Derringer from the hill with a five-hit assault in the second inning and then went on to win as they pleased.

It was obvious that Manager Bill McKechnie's boys had nothing resembling a batting punch as Bobo Newsom pawed dust around the pitching mound and mowed them down. And it was equally plain that the Reds were tightened up to the snapping point in the field.

Walters faced a situation in the 1939 series similar to the one confronting him today. Then it was the Yankees who had licked Derringer, and Bucky went charging into the breach. The Yanks found his sinker-ball a positive delight and teed off on him while Monte Pearson was blanking the Reds with two hits.

Walters' opponent today was the Tigers' towering Schoolboy Rowe, who made a sensational comeback the past season after a trip back to the minors with a lame arm. Rested and primed for what figured to be his one big effort of the series Rowe promised to be fully as effective as Newsom was yesterday. Like the rest of the Tigers he was bursting with confidence, while Walters must have gained along with his fellow Reds a certain sense of futility.

McKechnie refused to give up naturally, but Bill must be beginning to wonder if he's lived a proper life.

The Reds still were sadly crippled, with Catcher Ernie Lombardi and Second Baseman Lonnie Frey on the bench, and it looked increasingly doubtful that either would get into the play-off at all. But there was no real reason to believe that their absence seriously influenced yesterday's one-sided result.

Eddie Joost, Frey's replacement, made two of the Reds' eight blows off Newsom and didn't bungle a chance afield. Veteran Jimmy Wilson caught well enough, too, though his batting naturally was weaker than might reasonably have been expected of Lombardi.

Shortstop Billy Myers got a long running start toward being the goat of the play-off when twice in that terrible second inning he failed to make snap throws that would have retired Hank Greenberg and possibly have enabled Derringer to pull out of the hole and settle down. Both times Myers appeared to freeze. He looked like he wanted to throw the worst way, but simply couldn't.

But the Tigers' margin of superiority was even greater than that. They proved they could

Series Hero Played on Borrowed Time

Career of Bruce Campbell Once Near Tragedy.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CINCINNATI—(U P)—The World series has a way of dredging up those little human interest stories that only baseball can produce.

For example, the strange story of Bruce Campbell. Here he is today with one leg on the hero's trophy after an amazing career that has hovered perilously close to tragedy.

The fellow who held down right field for the Tigers yesterday and batted out a single and home run, drove in two runs and leaped out in front of his more famous teammates with a batting average of .667 is playing on borrowed time.

Back in 1935 he was carted to the hospital with spinal meningitis and the doctors told him, not once but several times during the fall of that year and the spring of 1936, that he'd never play ball again. He was in hospitals in Chicago, Detroit and Boston fighting for his life.

But the soft-spoken Chicago boy smiled grimly at the sad news, and in a valiant struggle that baffled the medicos, licked his insidious enemy. That was the closest call Campbell ever had but by no means the only one. His whole baseball career has been one close shave after another.

He just got off the Cleveland Indians in time. They traded him to the Tigers last winter in an even swap for Beau Bell. Modesty prevents Campbell from talking about his narrow escape from the Cleveland insurrection.

"Gee, I like all those fellows over in Cleveland and I was sure sorry to see that thing happen," Campbell says.

Campbell was a last-minute starter in the opening game against the Reds. He didn't even know he was going to play until Paul Derringer started warming up.

* * *

Of all the 31,793 spectators in Crosley field, yesterday probably no one was happier than Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Bruce's mother. Wish Egan, Tiger scout who was sitting in a box with her, said Mrs. Campbell was delirious with joy over her son's home run.

Cincinnati Fans See Reds Drop Opener

A crowd of 31,793, a large part of which is pictured, saw the Cincinnati Reds lose the first game of the world series, played in their home park, Crosley Field—the Detroit Tigers winning, 7-2.

Campbell Hits First Homer

Bruce Campbell, crossing the plate after hitting the first home run of the world series, in the fifth inning of the first game at Cincinnati, is congratulated by Pinky Higgins, a teammate. Rudy York (No. 4) looking on, was on base when Campbell homered. Detroit won, 7-2.

ASHLAND CLUB STAGES FIELD TRIALS SUNDAY

The Ashland County Beagle club will sponsor a field trial Sunday at club headquarters, six miles west of Ashland, according to an announcement today by Howard Berton, secretary.

A K C sanctioned, the trial is scheduled to get under way at 8 a. m. with the first drawings set for bat time. Entry fee will be $2. O. L. Venus and Robert J. Laughlin will act as judges.

TENNIS COURT ROMANCE ENDS IN MARRIAGE

NEW YORK - (INS) - Their romance of the tennis court having blossomed into marriage, Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., the third-ranking woman tennis player in the country, and her groom, Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., the sixth ranking man player, were making extensive honeymoon plans today.

They were married yesterday at a ceremony attended by many famous tennis luminaries.

County Grid Teams Seek To Extend Winning Streaks

FOOTBALL teams from five Richland county high schools will see action on the gridiron tomorrow with two teams going after their fourth straight win and one seeking its first victory of the season.

Seeking their fourth win in an effort to remain on the Ohio scholastic undefeated and untied list will be Mansfield and Shelby, while Madison is still trying for its initial triumph.

Mansfield's Tygers 7 to 6 winner over Elyria last week will play host to New Philadelphia under the lights at Stadium Field at 8 p. m. and Shelby who last week moved to the top of the North Central Ohio conference by virtue of it's 7-6 triumph over Ashland meets Bucyrus in a night contest at Shelby.

The Madison Rams who have been running into hard luck since the season opened will be trying to get into the win column when they invade Orrville for an afternoon game tomorrow. The Rams lost their third straight game, 45-0 at the hands of Dennison high last week at Uhrichsville.

Crestline and Bellville which were dropped from the undefeated and untied list last week, will be trying to get back into winning ways again. Crestline plays host to Fremont St. Joseph undo, the Lions at Crestline and Bellville plays host to Loudonville in an afternoon tilt.

In other afternoon contests Butler high will tackle the Mt. Vernon Reserves, an NCO team, Fredericktown meets Centerburg at home, Danville travels to Dresden, Amherst plays at New London, and Mt. Gilead will see action at Upper Sandusky.

Other night tilts will find Galion at Willard, Ashland at Marion and Granville at Mt. Vernon. Sandusky, a future Mansfield foe, will tangle with Canton McKinley at Canton.

Saturday afternoon the Mansfield Junior Varsity plays host to the Tompken Vocational team of Canton and Massillon another future Tyger foe, travels to Erie East, Pa.

Seats Still Available For Tyger Grid Games.

Reserved seat tickets are still available for the two remaining home games on the Mansfield Tyger 1940 football schedule, according to an announcement made yesterday by George Sherman, school treasurer. There are plenty of seats left for the New Philadelphia game tomorrow night, and some seats can still be had for the Massillon game Oct. 25, Sherman said. Tickets for tomorrow night's game are 50 cents while seats for the Massillon game will cost 75 cents, Sherman said and can be purchased at Tawse's Pharmacy, Central Drug store, Brown's Drug store, Yuncker Sports, Mansfield Athletic Supply, and the Auxter Motor Sales. Tickets for the Massillon game will be placed on sale at these places of business on Monday, according to Sherman.

Newark Holds Series Edge

Stops Louisville 10-3 In International Playoff.

LOUISVILLE —(AP)— The American Association champs aren't feeling so well against power hitters.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — The He-Probably-Will-Manage-the Indians club has geen growing at an amazing rate, uninterrupted by the world series, and now has such a large membership that veteran baseball men are inclined to feel slighted if they aren't on the list.

Of course there are some baseball men who are glad that they aren't being considered, knowing the temperament of the Cleveland front office, fans and players.

Bucky Harris, Washington pilot: Mickey Cochrane, former Tiger mentor: Luke Sewell, Cleveland coach; Rogers Hornsby, former big league manager and this year head man at Oklahoma City; Bill Terry, boss of the New York Giants: Steve O'Neill, 1940 Buffalo manager; Roger Peckinpaugh, one of Cleveland's 13 former managers; Hal Trosky, Indians first baseman and field captain; and Oscar Vitt, questioned leader of the season just closed.

Vitt isn't conceded much chance to get back the job. Most of the Cleveland sports writers believe Sewell, a former Indian catcher, will be named.

Columbus Bulls Win Loop Tilt

BOSTON—(INS)—The Columbus Bulls today held a victory in the newly organized American Professional football league, a 17 to 0 win over the Boston Bears.

* * *

Sub Quarterback Jack La Bay led the Bulls to their first score by place-kicking a 43-yard field goal. A blocked kick and an intercepted pass led the way for the Bulls' two touchdowns in the last period.

Joe Aleskus, Columbus center, blocked Jerry Donnell's punt on Boston's 30 and Bell fell on it in the end zone. Johnson, a few minutes later intercepted Donnell's pass and raced 20 yards for a score.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Talk that Bucky Harris might shift from Washington to succeed Oscar Vitt at Cleveland, had the gossips buzzing today. . . . Harris is reported interested because (a) he could get more money and (b) he thinks he could win a pennant with such guys as Feller, Boudreau and Mack around. . . . (Confidentially he is a bit fed up on all those Cubans, Lithuanians, Venezuelans, etc., with which the Washington camp is littered.) . . . Here's a late flash from gossip row: If Harris does get the Cleveland job, his successor at Washington will be either Buddy Myer, Ossie Bluege or Rogers Hornsby. . . . Things are so hot Hornsby has asked at least two guys we could name to intercede on his behalf with Clark Griffith.

PITCH BY PITCH.

In turning back the Reds yesterday, old Bobo Newsom, the pride of Hartsville, S. C., threw 46 fewer pitches than Derringer, Moore and Riddle, the Cincinnati hurlers. . . . The official figures show old Bobo chucked that apple exactly 102 times. . . . Derringer let loose 31 times; Moore, 104, and Riddle, 13.

SERIES NOTES.

The Tigers had nothing but praise for the work of Bill Klem, "The Old Arbitrator," behind the plate. . . . Said it was one of the best umpiring jobs they saw all season, which is pretty nice considering Bill comes from the other side of the fence. . . . The Reds gave the veteran Jimmy Wilson a handsomely engraved watch for stepping in and catching the last eight games in the pennant drive, after Ernie Lombardi was hurt. . . . Al Schacht's young daughter, Mary Burnet, is coming all the way from Tampa to see her pop do his clowning at Detroit. . . . Before yesterday's game scalpers were asking $50 for a pair of tickets—at one hotel, the price was $70. . . . Young Spike Briggs, vice president of the Tigers, told Del Baker: "Beat 'em four straight if you can—to hell with the money." Who ever heard of a magnate talking like that?

Only One Senior to Start for Mansfield

By REX HESS

SINCE last spring's practice sessions the gridiron coaching staff of Mansfield high school has had one theme song, warbled in constant and boisterous harmony:

"Watch us go in 1941."

Mansfield's Tygers have been doing all right for themselves in this young pigskin season of 1940. Three victories and no defeats against fairly tough opposition is a record hardly conducive of tears and moans from any coaching staff.

But the cause for optimism over next fall's Tyger chances will be apparent to all fans who attend tomorrow night's game at Stadium field between Mansfield High and New Philadelphia's Quakers.

Only one senior, left tackle George Murray, will be in the starting lineup for Mansfield.

Putting a lineup of under-classmen on the field might seem to be tempting fate a bit on top of a three-game winning streak, but Coach Paul Snyder hastens to explain:

"This is no noble experiment. Our juniors and sophomores have been looking good in practice, and should give us as strong a team as we've had before. And our senior replacements won't do us any harm."

Snyder decided yesterday to give Sophomore Louis Nameth, a hard-driving 160-pounder, a chance at the fullback post against New Philadelphia, replacing Senior Martin Henke.

Bill Pecht, a junior, will replace Senior Bob Lantz at right guard, and John Weber, another junior, will start at left guard in place of Senior Ed Kinkle.

Henke carried most of the forward passing burden in last week's 7 to 6 victory over Elyria, and these chores have now been handed over to Jim Templeton and Bill Doolittle.

No one worries so much as a coach, and the Tyger mentor is no exception. Comparing the Mansfield and New Philadelphia records for the season he sees plenty of reason for over-confidence on the part of his Tygers this week, and in fact has noticed, or imagined, a let-down on the part of his gridders since the Elyria victory.

While the Tygers have trimmed Akron West 14 to 13, Cambridge 25 to 7, and Elyria 7 to 6, the New Philly Quakers have been trounced by Akron Garfield 7 to 0, Zanesville 26 to 13, and Lorain 54 to 0.

On paper the Tygers figure to win by at least four touchdowns, but Snyder points out that no touchdowns were ever scored on paper. It is still necessary to play a football game to win it.

It's partly to overcome over-confidence that Snyder is starting his under-classmen tomorrow night. "As long as the boys are fighting for positions on the team we shouldn't be bothered too much by over-confidence," says the Tyger coach.

The Tygers will be out for revenge for a 20 to 0 defeat at New Philly last year and Snyder doesn't want to miss because of any let-down.

Coach Woodrow Hayes of New Philly also is playing with the idea of starting under-classmen tomorrow night. "After that 5-0 rout by Lorain what have we got to lose?" he asks plaintively.

"If we're going to get trimmed, we might as well do it with youngsters who can soak up a little experience for next year."

The Quakers lost some outstanding ball players from last year's good aggregation. Graduation took Jack Castignola and Lloyd (Bronko) Reese from the backfield, and Leo Benjamin, Herbert Hines, Bob Affolter, Gene Herron and Gene Wherley from the line.

With their weakest team in eight years, the Quakers are experiencing a bitter come-down from their previous high rank. They were undefeated and tied only once last season.

They'll Battle Tygers Friday Night

Gopher Picked To Win

Ohio State Boasts Big Weight Advantage In Tilt With Purdue.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO Minnesota and Nebraska, perenially big and bruising teams which like their football that way, get together at Minneapolis Saturday. But they could save a lot of wear and tear on each other by merely looking at the records and conceding that it was Minnesota's year.

In the last four seasons the rivals have split even, with Nebraska winning in the odd years and Minnesota the even—which makes the Gophers due Saturday.

The past further discloses that every time Minnesota opened the season defeating Washington, it went on to turn back Nebraska. And last week the Gophers beat Washington, 19 to 14.

Ohio State has figured that it will have a 23-pound weight advantage in the line over Purdue Saturday, and that it will have plenty of speed to match the Boilermakers'. Purdue polished its defense and its aerial attack yesterday in preparation for the opening conference game of the season.

At Indiana, Coach Bo McMillin said he would use a veteran backfield combination against Texas but kept its identity a secret . . . Injuries removed another prospective regular, the fifth, at Wisconsin. Coach Harry Stuhldreher said Leonard Seelinger, sophomore back was the latest.

Last Saturday's 41-0 rout of California notwithstanding, Michigan's coaches still were dissatisfied with the Wolverine offensive and contended the score was "misleading." . . . Passing, both offensive and defensive, came in for further study at Iowa . . . Northwestern looked at Syracuse plays demonstrated by freshmen . . . Illinois got ready for Bradley with a scrimmage against the fresh.

Lou Boudreau In Hospital

But He's More Concerned Over World Series.

CLEVELAND (AP) Lou Boudreau, the Cleveland Indians phenomenal shortstop, packed a troublesome appendix and a radio off to a hospital today to have the first out and the other "cut in" on the world series.

He apparently was concerned more with the series than with the operation, saying: "I hope the championship will stay in the American league."

The Tribesman, who not only plugged a leaky infield effectively in his first full season with Cleveland but batted an impressive .296 and poled in 101 runs to lead the club, had been "bothered off and on the whole season" by his appendix.

9 Defeats In Row for Bill

knock the cover off good pitching. Derringer had his stuff, but no one could have guessed it when Greenberg, York, Higgins, McCosky and Bartell began whaling away at him in the second. Big Paul had retired only one man and five runs were across before Whitey Moore could come to the rescue.

Incidentally, to show the amazing confidence of the Reds before they felt Detroit's power, there wasn't even a pitcher in their bull pen when Derringer began getting his lumps, and Moore literally ran down there with a catcher to get in a hasty warm-up.

Moore pitched a fine stretch of ball from the time he relieved Derringer until he retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth. His fast ball was whistling and he struck out seven Tigers, among other things. Yet he had one short lapse in the fifth, and it illustrated forcibly the sudden, savage power in the Detroit bats.

Wham! York smashed almost a line drive against the right field screen. Moore took a deep breath and threw again. Socko! Bruce Campbell lifted it high and far away into the right center-field bleachers. The two blows took more out of the capacity crowd of more than 32,000 than had the second-inning outburst, for they made it cruelly obvious that the American league still packed a knockout punch.

Ival Goodman saved the Reds from a shut-out. He doubled off Newsom in the fourth and scored on Jim Ripple's hit, and in the eighth his line single brought in Bill Werber, who had doubled. Barney McCosky of Detroit made the day's fielding gem in the first inning when he jumped high against the center field fence to haul down a furious smack by Frank McCormick.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— This is a story that had its beginning over a plate of fried chicken, way down south where the moon is big and the Spanish moss sways in the live oak trees.

And it's a story that will have its ending today in a world series setting. Out under a bright sun and with 30,000 persons looking on.

It is the story—as those of you who know your baseball already have guessed—of those two Cincinnati Reds, Bucky Walters and Jimmy Wilson. Bucky will do the pitching and Jimmy the catching for the Reds against the Tigers today, and if this battery fails to win—but let us travel back through the years to a little fried chicken shack somewhere between Orlando and Winter Haven, Fla.

Jimmy was manager of the Philadelphia Phillies then, and Bucky was a third baseman. Not a very good one, either, being just a fair fielder and no great shakes as a hitter. They were working on their second drumstick these two when Wilson suggested to Walters that he try his hand at pitching.

"You're scarcely good enough at third to stay with this team," Wilson said. "And you don't make any dough. Why there are fifty pitchers making twice as much as you are, Bucky, and they're not very good pitchers, either."

Walters said no. Wilson argues. They were on their third helping of chicken before Walters reluctantly agreed to turn pitcher, but only on the condition that if he failed he would get another shot at third base.

Most of you know the trials and tribulations of Walters as a pitcher. His first start was against the Reds and Lary McPhail, who was running the Cincinnati's at that time, came down from the stands to demand of Wilson that he remove Walters before he killed a batch of Cincinnati players.

Through the season opposing players ribbed Walters unmercifully and the fans jeered and booed. But he kept at it. Worked as few pitchers have. Three ordinary seasons with the Phillies as a pitcher.

Today Bucky will have as his catcher the man who started him off on the road to success. The aging Wilson who, until a few weeks ago thought he was through as a competitor. But the death of Willard Hershberger and the injury of Ernie Lombardi drove him back into his pads and shin guards. Over forty years old, not in too good condition, Wilson will catch Walters in the make-or-break game of the series for the Reds.

Don Scott to Read Papers After Grid Season's Over

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—A big 21-year-old sandy-haired kid named Don Scott is faced with the job of playing two roles every Saturday afternoon when the Ohio State football team trots on the field.

One part—quarterback on the team—he's ready and willing to play. The other was not his doing nor particularly to his liking, but the 213-pound senior shoulders the burden without complaint.

The country's sports experts in August blithely tagged him "the back of the year" and left the responsibility of proving it up to Don.

The piles of press clippings, the reams of publicity and pictures—all glazed with great predictions of what Scott will do on the gridiron this season—would cause almost any young man to shudder.

But not the modest but confident Scott, whose ability as a field general has caused the heart of Coach Francis Schmidt to grow warm with satisfaction and the writers to murmur "All-American."

Don knows that the praise mills are grinding out copy at top speed. He's aware of the fact that in every play Don Scott is watched as closely as the entire team. The six-foot quarterback has made himself publicity-proof by not reading the newspapers and magazines.

The "would-be" All-American berth given Don in August doesn't have him worried. He thinks the label has its advantages because as a marked man tacklers will come at him with a vengeance.

"It's easy to outmaneuver a man who's coming in with intent to kill," Don said. "Those guys will all be trying to kill me this fall—I hope."

"If they keep watching me, Strausbaugh and Langhurst will run their ears off," he said referring to Jim Langhurst, captain and fullback, and Jim Strausbaugh, left halfback.

In his double role Scott didn't dominate the game with Pittsburgh last week. As the quarterback he generaled his team to a 30-7 victory. As the much-publicized Scott he lived up to forecasts by tossing two beautiful passes which resulted in touchdowns. He passed four times and made good on two for 61 yards. He carried the ball just twice, for 11 yards, and punted three times for a total of 125 yards.

Back at his home in Canton, O., Don's father is saving all the clippings about the quarterback and the accounts of the games. At the end of the season, Don said, he'll read them but not before.

He battled the publicity qinx once before and he lost. In 1937, Don entered Ohio State as an All-Ohio high school player after he starred at quarterback on a great Canton McKinley team. In his sophomore year he started strong as a halfback but slipped into oblivion. In the final game against Michigan he played only 11 minutes.

Last season he was switched to the quarterback post and suddenly emerged as the best signal-caller and triple-threat man in the Big Ten conference.

COLUMBUS TROTTER TAKES 3-YEAR-OLD EVENT

MARYSVILLE — (INS) — Remus, owned and piloted by Harry Short, of Columbus, today had taken another harness racing event, this time the three-year-old trot at the annual Union county fair.

A new track pacing record was set in the 2:02 pace when Jackie Grattan, owned by Berry Farms, Butler, Pa., and piloted by Lacey, stepped the last two heats in 2:03½. The previous record was 2:05. The first event, the two-year-old pace, was won by Scott Emilee, owned by W. J. Michael, of Plain City.
